Epigraph:

The gateway from intelligent energy to intelligent infinity opens regardless of circumstance on the striking of the hour.

- Law of One

Freedom is a heavy load, and a great, strange burden for the spirit to undertake. It is not easy. It is not a gift given, but a choice made. And the choice may be a hard one. The road goes upwards towards the light, but the laden traveler may never reach the end of it. Man approaches the unattainable truth through a succession of errors. Affliction comes to us, not to make us sad, but sober. Not to make us sorry, but wise. You'll be required to do wrong no matter where you go. It is the basic condition of life to be required to violate your own identity. At some point, every creature which lives must do so. It is the ultimate shadow, the defeat of creation. This is the curse at work, the curse that feeds on all life, everywhere in the universe. The gravest error a thinking person can make is to believe that one particular version of history is absolute fact. History is recorded by a series of observers. None of whom were impartial. It is change, continuing change, inevitable change that is the dominant factor in society today. No sensible decision can be made any longer without taking into account not only the world as it is, but the world as it will be. The saddest aspect of life right now is that science gathers knowledge faster than society gathers wisdom. Each generation imagines itself to be more intelligent than the one that went before it, and wiser than the one that came after it. Man is the unnatural animal, the rebel child of nature, and more and more does he turn himself against the harsh and fitful hand that reared him. It doesn't matter what you do, so as long as you changed something from the way it was before you touched it into something that's like you after you take your hands away. The very concept of truth is fading out of this world, and lies will pass into history. Solitude and isolation are painful things, and beyond human endurance. For small creatures such as we, the vastness is bearable only through love.

THE TRINITY

O blessed glorious Trinity,
Bones to philosophy, but milk to faith,
Which, as wise serpents, diversely
Most slipperiness, yet most entanglings hath,
As you distinguish'd, undistinct,
By power, love, knowledge be,
Give me a such self different instinct,
Of these let all me elemented be,
Of power, to love, to know you unnumbered three.

Inspiration to name the first nuclear bomb test "Trinity"

-John Donne "A Littany" 1896

ROBERT OPENHEIMER "Father of the Atomic Bomb"

A few people laughed, a few people cried, most people were silent. I remembered the line from the Hindu scripture, the Bhagavad-Gita... Vishnu... is trying to persuade the prince that he should do his duty, and, to impress him, takes on his multi-armed form, and says, "Now I am become Death, the destroyer of worlds."

The Atomic Clock Begins

DAVID WILCOCK>>When the Trinity nuclear test was done, and Robert Oppenheimer said, "We have done this before," he was speaking from an informed perspective. In the ancient Hindu text, the Bhagavad-Gita, there is a reference to a bolt of iron charged with the light of a thousand suns. It describes radiation sickness. It describes elephants screaming and dying. It describes the shadows that are left on the ground after the blast goes off, all things that we're now very familiar with in the nuclear age. The same culture that described what appeared to be the use of a modern nuclear weapon, also was describing things like anti-gravity craft that flew through the air with no sound called "Vimanas". This craft could pass right through a mountain, and they also used some sort of particle beam weapons. You have human-looking beings that are larger than the rest of us, and have blue skin, like Krishna, and they also have extraordinary abilities. And in addition to that, you have weird reptilian beings called Rakshasas who are also code-named "snakes". And these beings clearly appear to be of a reptilian nature. This even goes to the point that you still, to this day, have temples in India in which there are people called Nagas who have a human-like top, but then, from the waist down, they literally have a snake's body. All of this stuff takes on a much different investigative hue, once we look at the fact that the actual record of what we now know a nuclear bomb looks and acts like is dutifully recorded in these Hindu scriptures. So, Oppenheimer was aware that this weapon unleashed a fury unlike everything we'd ever seen before.

Prior to Hiroshima and Nagasaki, the scientists were the rock stars. Thomas Edison, Alexander Graham Bell, Marconi, Tesla. These were the rockstars. These were the people who made our lives so exciting that we went from, essentially, a primitive situation, where in order to have food preserved, we have to have an ice box, where literally pieces of ice are covered with sawdust, to now, we have electric refrigerators, we have electric lights so we can read at night, we have thoughts being beamed wirelessly by radio, and then, eventually, even pictures through television. This was so exciting.

People could travel, transcontinental railroad. All these things were coming out that had never happened before, the private automobile without the need for horses. And then, all of a sudden, the nuclear explosion shows that technology hit a screaming brick wall. We could not trust any longer that our toys would be the instruments of our enlightenment. They could actually be the instruments of our destruction.

COREY GOODE>>Exploding these nuclear weapons ended up basically acting as beacons to a number of ET races in our general area. The primary energy pulse that occurs in one of these explosions sends an energy that feeds back through the fabric of space-time. All stars, all planets are connected through electromagnetic filaments. Scientists call these connections the "cosmic web". It looks like a giant spider web all throughout the cosmos. When a nuclear explosion occurs, it sends a feedback through this cosmic web. This is a problem because these extraterrestrials not only communicate through this cosmic web, but they actually travel through it from star to star. Therefore, when we detonated these devices, we sent out a signal saying not only are we at a certain level advancement, but we're not at a certain level of advancement spiritually.

WILCOCK>>Oppenheimer's key quotes revealed that he did not know what the effect of the detonation of the nuclear bomb would be. When they conducted the Trinity test, they were unaware as to whether or not this explosion would create a chain reaction that could actually destroy the whole Earth. And yet, they proceeded forward because they believed that this weapon was the only way they could end World War II, and thus the ends justified the means.

JORDAN SATHER>>With how potent and how powerful these technologies can be, we can never expect to be able to handle them if we operate them from a low consciousness. When you raise your individual consciousness, when you actually make the effort to become more aware of an individual, that has a mirrored effect to society. It's the Law of Correspondence: As above, so below. So, when you become more conscious of an individual, that makes society itself raise in consciousness. And when each one of us, every single one of us begins making ourself more aware, society itself is going to become more aware.

WILCOCK>>Multiple insiders with credible military and corporate backgrounds have said that extraterrestrial spacecraft have appeared over nuclear missile installations, and have completely powered them down. ..

CAPTAIN ROBERT SALAS>>[congressional testimony]..first I'd like to briefly describe the incident that I experienced in March 1967. At the time, I was a first lieutenant, US Air Force, stationed at Malmstrom Air Force Base, Montana. I was trained and assigned duties as a missile launch officer for the Minuteman I Intercontinental Ballistic Missile. We had operational control over ten Minuteman nuclear missiles. On the evening of March 24th, 1967, while my commander was on a scheduled rest break, I received the first of two phone calls. Uh, the first call was to report unidentified lighted objects flying above the facility.

DAN WILLIS>>Well, they were hovering above the nuclear silos, and what was happening was, they didn't attack the nuclear silos, all they did was shut down, um... Like, Captain Robert Salas had, like, eight nuclear-tipped ICBMs, and they all got shut down in rapid succession. And these systems have triple redundancy backup systems. So, and the, uh, guards up topside were with their weapons drawn, with a glowing red saucer above the silo. And then the, uh... the UFO then went 60 miles to the other base, and shut down their nuclear missiles as well. This has happened more than once. This happened in Bentwaters in UK as well.

WILCOCK>>What most people haven't heard came to me from two insiders, Bob Dean and Pete Peterson, where both of them independently told me that in the year 1990, all of the nuclear warheads in the US and in the USSR completely melted down, became radioactively inert, and even the missiles themselves would just sputter around, and wouldn't even fly a straight trajectory anymore. Right during the same time that all of these nuclear missiles were literally melted down inside the warhead, we also have this amazing formation appear on a dry lakebed in Oregon.

NBC NEWS>>The Idaho National Guard has a huge mystery on its hands, and that is our top story today. During routine photo reconnaissance missions over Oregon, our F-4 jets spotted and took photographs of a huge carving in the desert over 1,000 feet across. It has everybody talking. I mean, this is just something that chills you. How would someone do this? It's incredibly time-consuming uh, a lot of expertise involved, had to take a long period of time, and maybe a lot of money. From point-to-point, it's exactly eleven and a half degrees. - Exactly? - Exactly. And the outer ones, they're exactly 23 degrees apart. - Exactly. No variation. - No variation?

And there's something else puzzling here, something that you do not see. You do not see tire tracks, the kind of tracks that might be made by a tractor or a plow. No tire tracks and no footprints. In Oregon, I'm Walden Kirsch from NBC News.

WILCOCK>>The reality is, that this is the same type of thing that's being done with crop circle formations, but on an even more impressive scale, and that mark was a symbolic statement from the ETs. The Mandala, remember, is supposed to be a symbol of the cosmic mind, a symbol of the creator, the origin of the universe, the geometric nature of how everything unfolds. So they're giving us a message. They're showing us that they will make sure that we stay on track for this positive future that's been promised to us in over 35 different ancient cultures around the world.

DWIGHT DAVID EISENHOWER>>Ladies and gentlemen, the President of the United States. Good evening, my fellow Americans. In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists, and will persist. We must never let the weight of this combination endanger our liberties or democratic processes. We should take nothing for granted. Only an alert and knowledgeable citizenry can compel the proper meshing of the huge industrial and military machinery of defense with our peaceful methods and goals, so that security and liberty may prosper together.

THE MILITARY INDUSTRIAL COMPLEX

LAURA EISENHOWER>>So when I, uh, really think about the speech from Dwight David Eisenhower, his farewell speech about the military-industrial complex, it brings up a lot of stuff for me. Um, I was recruited to go off-planet in 2006, and it seems to be related to the Alternative 3 scenario, um, that relates to creating colonies off-planet, um, and the Mars colony was the planet that was being discussed during that time. And so when we hear about a warning like that, but we don't hear about the actual alternatives or agendas or ET-government treaties and some of the things that were taking place, what was he really trying to say? Um, there's so many layers to the military-industrial complex that we're starting to discover now. Um, and I've been definitely researching and digging real deep in order to understand really what he meant. And as many have uncovered and been a whistle-blower for, and just my own experience, uh, in that Mars recruitment, we discovered Secret Space Program, um, this multi-level... uh, shadow government with compartmentalism. Um, things that happened after the Second World War and the infiltration coming in from Project Paperclip to the American government, MK-Ultra having so many branches, so it's like, "Okay, here's a warning about the misplaced power that exists and will persist, if we, as American people, don't start to become empowered." It's basically what I got from it. I could feel a lot of pride in a lot of my family members about that speech. Uh, but I would say that I'm a family member that has, I think, recognized some layers that were not brought to my attention growing up, that I've been able to sort of, uh, share with them. And again, there's compartmentalism. Uh, the NSA signed something in 1947 that made it legal, like a law, that you can disclose that sort of stuff without massive ramifications. And here we are, in this particular window, um, without oaths being signed by many of us, uh, with more freedom of speech and more of an ability, um, to bring light to all of this. And that's why the speech is really relevant because it rings true to today. Those warnings are something that we're beginning to finally uncover.

WILLIS>>It actually started back in 1955 with the Eisenhower administration that was forced, uh, into a treaty, somewhat of a surrender with, uh, a Nazi faction that have been operating. One of the witnesses that was General Brigadier, uh, Brigadier General Stephen Lovekin, who, uh, was an Eisenhower staff, who was aware that he'd lost control to the corporations, and that it would not be in the best of hands. And so, once this treaty was signed, Nelson Rockefeller restructured the whole CIA MJ-12 operations. So now, our legal government is no longer, uh, in the loop. They also replaced the complete MJ-12 group that was originally set up by President Truman with Allen Dulles as MJ-1 or head of the MJ-12 operations, of all people, who was highly instrumental in the Nazi infiltration. Uh, what happened was, when this happened, all of the reverse engineering operations that were at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Ohio were moved to Area 51 in S4, where, um... Eisenhower realized that he had lost control when he attempted to look into it, he was denied access. Uh, here, you know, a five-star general is really pissed, so he, uh... He threatened to invade Area 51 with the First Army out of Colorado, and until they allowed two agents to give a report of what's going on over there. And what they found was that several craft were being reverse-engineered that were extraterrestrial and of German origin.

SATHER>>One of the ways that the Nazis obtained their advanced technology before World War II was through the use of a channeler called Maria Orsic. Maria Orsic was channeling telepathic messages from extraterrestrials that were offering her plans and schematics to actually create anti-gravity craft. Maria Orsic channeled this information for the occult Vril Society in Germany. This information was later used by these German secret societies to build out many of their crafts. Because they were focused more on the qualitative superiority rather than the quantitative, they were more focused on having more advanced technology rather than more tanks and boots on the ground, they were losing the ground war in Europe, but they were obtaining the more advanced technology, and to save that technology, they took it down to Antarctica pre and during World War II.

GOODE>>In the late 1930s, the Nazis had an expeditionary group go down to Antarctica, and they found some very interesting things. They found a region under the ice that was created by geothermal heat from volcanoes, and there'd be three miles of ice, and a few thousand feet above ground level would have been melted by the geothermal heat. And the rest of the ice acts as an insulator, causing it, sort of like an igloo effect, and the dome would grow from the heat, uh, the geothermal heat, and it would melt and, uh, run under the ice. And that was some of what was lubricating the ice and causing it to move. But underneath these areas, they were finding perfect areas to build submarine bases. So, not only did the Nazis build out submarine bases, as they developed more and more of their space program, they developed out a massive space port. After these space ports were developed, and the Nazis had handed it over to, basically, the Americans, the Americans began to develop more and more research in development bases in Antarctica. In the late 1950s, a treaty was signed that stated that Antarctica was only to be used for, uh, peaceful research. Well, we were... basically arriving, and digging giant holes under the ice in various areas, and building out these giant complexes, much like, um, I think it was called Project Iceworm, back in the 1960s, where, like, in Greenland, uh, the United States Army Corps engineers was building out an ICBM base hidden under the ice. And it was very sophisticated. I'm told that they were very similar, uh, in when they were built and how they were built, to the buildings that were built in this program. Uh, companies that were given access to these R&D bases began to develop NBC testing. They called it Nuclear, Biological, Chemical testing, which, in the programs, usually translates into them working with clones, working with, uh, different chemical compounds to affect, uh, how people develop psychologically or physiologically. So, a lot of very, very dark scientific programs began to be developed down in Antarctica, and indeed are going on to this very day. One of the biggest things that the cabal does not want us to know about are the existence of these R&D bases, and the, um, all of the horrible crimes against humanity that are occurring on these R&D bases.

WILCOCK>>On December 9th, 2015, William Tompkins released his epic book Selected By Extraterrestrials. I became aware of it early in 2016, but it wasn't until he had conducted several interviews that he and I became friends and began speaking regularly. The story of William Tompkins is quite amazing. Here's a man who's 93 years old, and he gets hired right as he begins his military career in the Navy, working in a highly classified program for the United States government at the highest levels, where he was personally responsible for getting information from 23 different American spies who were embedded in the German Secret Space Program, which apparently included bases in Antarctica.

WILLIAM TOMPKINS>>A single navy operative went into Germany. Uh, this is, like, 1939. He didn't believe this, but there was very strange organizations and different research groups all over, not just Germany, but in the occupied countries, too. And, strangely enough, Germany was putting in production fantastic vehicles. They didn't have wings on these aircraft. They didn't have empennage or tail. Uh, they had landing gears. Some of them were triangular-shaped, some were rectangular-shaped, some were round-shaped, like a saucer. And, so he, being a spy for the Navy, found out all of these fantastic situations that were going on inside of Germany. And this is an important point. Instead of him going to his boss, coming back to United States, he went directly to the Secretary of the Navy, Forrestal. Forrestal gets tapped on the shoulder. He gets told, "Don't select... a Navy officer to head up these operatives." What? He's told to select somebody who had never been in Annapolis. Now, almost every Navy officer, whether they're a one-star or a lieutenant commander, they've all been through Annapolis to learn how to be a Navy officer. It turns out... Forrestal is told that every book, every book in the libraries, every book in the colleges, every book in the universities, every book on this planet... is misinformation. It's misinformation which is initiated by the Draco Reptilians as far back as 6,000 years ago.

GOODE>>The Reptilians really came into control, and started to, um, be able to manipulate what was going on on the face of the planet about 6,000 to 7,000 years ago. It is true that they have different masking technologies to be able to be in a room and look like a human, but usually, they're in underground bases in various places on the globe, as well as in a huge area in Antarctica. The southeast region has a large number of underground caverns that are kept extremely warm, too warm for humans, by geothermal heat. It's a perfect place for all of these colonies that the Reptilians have. They're basically cities, huge cities with millions of them.

TOMPKINS>>So, the Secretary of Navy selects Rico Botta. He's not even an American. He comes over here with his family, he goes to school here, he then goes to the second year in high school, he leaves school, he joins the Navy as a three... as a third class seaman, works his way up in the Navy. Now he's a commander, okay? That commander is selected by the Secretary of the Navy to head up all of these operatives, to go back into Germany and find out what's going on because that individual had never had misinformation given to him about every technical field on the planet.

SATHER>>Everything we learn in the establishment-controlled education systems is specifically designed to program our minds away from the truth. Physics is wrong, medicine is wrong, history is wrong. Everything we are taught in textbooks is mainly wrong. And this is done purposefully, so we don't understand how to move our bodies, how to feed our bodies, what really happened in the past, what technology can really do these days. All of these things, if we learned them, would help us empower ourselves, would help us actually understand what's really going on with our reality.

TOMPKINS>>Now, if you're to go to San Diego and look over at North Island, you're gonna see a tall building like this. There's a small office in the top of that building, which is a secret office for the admiral. This is where the operatives come to. So, the admiral's aide comes to my barracks, taps me on the shoulder, and he only says one word, "He's here." We drive over to that building, we get up to the top, and we go into this conference room, a small room, Admiral Rico Botta sits here, I sit here, and one of three other bosses that they have are all captains. So now, I have three captains as bosses, and now, a two-star admiral. He just got another raise. Wow. He just came back from Lockheed, he just came back from Scripps Institute, he just came back from all the aircraft companies. Wow. Now he's got these operatives coming in, so the operative sits on the other side of the table. He discloses to us these fantastic things that Germany is doing that make no sense. Now, I have eight girls and three PhDs as a group. We put together a package from what the operative brings back, some of it is photographs, once in a while, it's a manual, hardly any manuals. A couple of manuals were not even in English, German, or any other language. They were extraterrestrial hieroglyphics. You see all of this stuff. You hear it, you understand what the Germans are doing. They didn't just get documents from the extraterrestrials, they got brand-spanking-new space vehicles.

Here's one, here's another one. Here. They brought these, they take you inside, they show you how to drive it. So they put me in a secret laboratory... which is designing night-flying wings like Northrop does, okay? These are just a fuselage with no wings and no tail, half-airplane, half-spaceships. This is what Northrop was designing. Our first space ships are US Navy attack-class submarines. We put together programs that went all the way out into the galaxy, not just this galaxy.

GOODE>>The military-industrial complex, back when they were testing a lot of the technology that they had received from the Nazis after World War II, as well as from ETs, when they were testing... During proof of concept testing, they had attached this technology to, uh, a regular submarine, and then they flew it out of our atmosphere. That was the first time that they were really able to fly a vessel out of our atmosphere using electrogravitic technology. The reason that they used a submarine was, of course, because they were self-enclosed. They, uh... The crews that served on them were used to serving six months or more away from home, having all of their supplies with them, and they had the psychology of being able to handle those tight quarters for such a long time. The technology developed to a point to where they... And they developed the finances, these financial schemes, to begin to build out fleets of these long, cigar-shaped craft. Some of them were a kilometer long or longer, and they could make them longer by putting in sections, and the sections were modular, just like in modern submarines. They could take apart the fuselage and pull out sections. It could, um... One of these modules could be set for, like, three or four months as a laboratory for a bunch of different scientific programs. And then, at its next time at port, um, the modules are swapped out, and then it's a hospital ship. The modules are swapped out the next time, and it's a troop transport, or it's, uh, just a long haul freighter. So, these ships are very modular. And in the beginning, they were using, uh, power systems that were nuclear. Then they moved to thorium type of electrical generation, and then they moved to, sort of, uh, zero point electrical generation, and that is what they currently use.

TOMPKINS>>This is totally unreal, that this happened, like, in 1942 on this planet. Extraterrestrials come from who-knows-where out in the galaxy. Germany gets to be the country that these Draco Reptilians pick out to do two types of missions. One, to remove all of the people that Hitler didn't want in his country, and every one of them around the planet. Two... to take every man, woman and child on this planet and put them in slave factories, men, women and children, to build and construct all these different type of Draco Navy space battle group ships. This may sound like insanity, but this is what happened. He had concluded from what these insiders were telling him that the Germans had actually made treaties with a highly aggressive and highly negative Reptilian humanoid race that they've called the Saurians or the Draco. This treaty involved the Nazis actually being given workable technology that is built with our own conventional systems. They used a sort of mercury turbine, a type of mercury called "red mercury," and then, they are actually able to leave the Earth, they had a settlement on the Moon, they had a settlement on Mars, and they were doing this stuff as early as 1939, even before World War II actually started. As you can imagine, everybody was thinking he was crazy, but yet these insiders were reporting, literally standing there, in which you have eight-foot tall, even 12 to 14-foot tall Reptilian extraterrestrials, terrifying in appearance, they smell bad, actually advising the Germans on how to build this stuff in these various bases, including that in Antarctica.

SATHER>>Operation High Jump was an operation commissioned in 1947 that was led by Admiral Richard Byrd. And on a public level, it was said that this was a scientific exploration, but what happened was that this operation was commissioned with 33 ships, 13 aircraft and 5,000 men. Now, this was not a scientific exploration, with that many men and that many ships. What Operation High Jump actually was commissioned for was to go down to Antarctica and basically root out the Nazi installations that they had built pre and during World War II. The DC Flyover was an event that occurred over successive weekends in July of 1952 in Washington, DC. And what had happened was that there was a mass sighting right over the Capitol Building in Washington, DC. There were many lights in the sky. Now, many people believed that this was a UFO or an extraterrestrial incident, but, in fact, it was not. It was German saucers, German craft, that were flying over the Capitol Building, and essentially forcing the hand of the Americans to accept many of these Nazi scientists into their controls structures. When many of these Nazi scientists came into America after World War II, in Operation Paperclip, they infiltrated into, basically, every power structure in the United States government, media, medical systems, basically everything. After World War II, James Forrestal went to Germany to tour many of the research facilities that the Germans had over in Europe, and John F. Kennedy actually accompanied him on those tours. Some believe that Kennedy was actually given information by Forrestal about Secret Space Programs and the UFO phenomenon. And near the end of James Forrestal's career, he was also embroiled in many policy struggles within the United States government. He wanted to disclose the UFO phenomenon and the technologies associated with it. It was said that he committed suicide by jumping out of a high-rise hospital that was staying in at the time of his death, but, of course, many people are also believing that he was actually pushed out of the window, and, in fact, assassinated to prevent him from working to disclose these technologies in UFO projects.

WILLIS>>They had a really troubled Eisenhower, that passed the torch over to Kennedy, you know, before leaving his famous speech of, you know, beware of the misplaced powers when the industrial-military complex, and that only alert and knowledgeable citizenry can protect our future liberties and freedoms. Kennedy, with his background in Office of Naval Intelligence, and documents showed that he was aware all the way back to 1942 of operations happening. Kennedy, uh, had Allen Dulles as the CIA director. Finding the nefarious activities that Allen Dulles was doing, he eventually fired Dulles and was replaced with John McCone. Because Kennedy was trying to look into these activities, Allen Dulles set up an assassination directive that was revealed in what was called the "Burned Memo," one of, uh, James Jesus Angleton's memos that they were attempting to try to destroy it all, one intelligence operative was able to pull it. Basically saying that, uh, "Lancer," or the code word for JFK, "has been looking into our activities. This, we must not allow." This group was working with the group that was with the treaty in 1955. So, when Kennedy put forth a top-secret document to the CIA director looking into the MJ-12 and, uh, CIA operations with the extraterrestrial, uh, he was silenced, uh, with assassination ten days later. Years went by... Uh, by the way, the Warren Commission, which, you know, Kennedy's famous speech of infiltrated monolithic conspiracy, and beware of the dangers of secrecy and secret societies. Ironically, the Warren Commission, who said, you know, "We have a lone gunman that did this," uh, was all made up of 33rd degree Freemasons. And afterward, the CIA put out a memorandum to its operatives to use the term "conspiracy theorists" for anybody questioning, and it's used today as a common ploy to discredit people who are questioning the situation.

GOODE>>The closest we ever came to having technologies and the existence of non-terrestrials go public was actually in 1962-63. I'm told, through alliance sources, that President Kennedy was indeed going to make some announcements, and also make announcements that he was going to take drastic steps against some of these secret societies that were running the planet. Therefore, they worked through the CIA to have him eliminated. When he was eliminated in a very public way, the cabal came into power in a very public way. They had been controlling things very covertly up until that point. But since then, they have overtly controlled the destiny of the United States.

JOHN F. KENNEDY>>The very word "secrecy" is repugnant in a free and open society. And we are, as a people, inherently and historically, opposed to secret societies, to secret oaths and to secret proceedings. We decided long ago that the dangers of excessive and unwarranted concealment of pertinent facts far outweighed the dangers which are cited to justify it. Even today, there is little value in opposing the threat of a closed society by imitating its arbitrary restrictions. And there is very grave danger that an announced need for increased security will be seized upon by those anxious to expand its meaning to the very limits of official censorship and concealment. That I do not intend to permit to the extent that it's in my control.

SECRET SOCIETIES

GEORGE BUSH et al>>You were both in Skull and Bones, the secret society. It's so secret we can't talk about it. What does that mean for America? The conspiracy theorists are gonna go wild. I'm sure they are. I don't know, I haven't seen the web. Number 322. I'm... Excuse me, what are you arresting me for? Whoa, whoa, whoa. Is anybody watching this? Yale University is 300 years old this year, and were you to visit its campus, you would see that it still has exotic clubhouses which look like tombs, where Yale's legendary secret societies meet. The videotape provides a grainy glimpse into what appear to be the initiation rituals of a secret society that's been around since 1832 whose members have gone on to be leaders of Wall Street and the White House, the Senate and the Supreme Court. What they captured, they say, was initiates, known as "neophytes," being forced to kiss a skull... ..then, members performing a mock killing. Still, Rosenbaum says the tape is a valuable artifact, an extremely rare view into the secret society that groomed the American ruling class for generations. Dan Harris, ABC News, New York.

WILCOCK>>We see the remains of humans with elongated skulls all over the world. When you look at Egypt, there are countless depictions of the Pharaohs having these weirdly elongated skulls. This includes Akhenaten, Nefertiti, and their daughter, Meritaten. In the case of Meritaten, there are multiple granite busts that you can see that were carved of her in which she clearly has no hair and has this freakishly elongated skull. Remember, this is a culture that was apparently building pyramids at the time that these sculptures were made. The people with the elongated skulls had apparently been keeping their lineage secret and hidden in the Egyptian priesthood. But then, remember that Egypt became weak, and it was conquered by Rome. What happened when the Romans got in there is that they made a secret agreement with these people of the Egyptian priesthood who still have the elongated skulls, and they created a safe haven for them in the Vatican City. The Library of Alexandria was burned down, but only with a false flag, where they burned tax documents and census documents. They took all the good stuff that included books from before they came to Earth, and relocated that to the Vatican Library. Then you go across to the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, and once again, you have a pyramid-building culture in Mesoamerica, with people depicted in their inscriptions who have elongated skulls. And unlike the case of Egypt, with Mesoamerica, we now have the added benefit that there are multiple elongated skulls that have been dug up and were not censored, but are actually on display in museums in places like Bolivia. We have the researcher, Brian Foerster, who is bringing out new examples of elongated skulls, and they are being genetically tested, they're being analyzed, and they have clear physiological differences from the skulls that the rest of us have. These people have very large brains. Discover magazine, in the year 2009, came out with an article called, "What Happened To The Hominids Who Are Smarter Than Us?" And it describes how, in the early 20th century, elongated skulls were found in Boskop, South Africa, thus, earning them the name, "the Boskop skulls". And they were given ceremonial burials. Apparently, these people were revered in their society. But the article claims that the brain volume is almost twice what ours would be, and thus, the average person in their society would have an IQ of 150, and some of them could have an IQ that goes up to 300. These weird elongated skulls were also found in a dig in Siberia in a town called Omsk, and the men who dug them up were so afraid that many of them actually started crying and left their jobs, and refused to come back. We furthermore see in the case of the Mongolian conquerors that there were reports of them having weird elongated skulls. And, most recently, even in Europe, we have found tombs of the nobility, the wealthy people who preserved their bloodlines, such as in France, and they also have this bizarre elongated skull feature. It wasn't until insiders started talking to me that I thought about the fact that in the Vatican, you see people wearing these miter hats, and those hats would very nicely conceal an elongated skull. These people with elongated skulls would look like us in their faces, and the hat would conceal the only thing that would make them appear to be different. My research also turned up data on an Italian noble family from the 14th century known as the d'Este Clan, and the d'Este Clan had very close ties to the Vatican. What's so bizarre is when you look at a painting of Prince Leonello d'Este and someone who is either his sister or his wife, the scholars don't really know, they usually call her Princess d'Este, they both have freakishly elongated skulls in this painting. The story gets even more interesting when you trace the descendants of the d'Este clan, the lineage that they left behind, for what you find is, that King George I, who began ruling in 1714, was a direct bloodline descendant of these people who obviously had the elongated skulls in the 1400s. And then you find out that a variety of earlier British consorts, meaning nobility, also were direct descendants of the d'Este clan. Then it gets even more outrageous when you discover that the royal families of Norway, Sweden, Spain and Denmark are all descendants of the same elongated skull d'Este clan. And let's not forget that only recently, we found royal tombs in France and other countries in Europe in which the nobility, again, had these elongated skulls. And if you think this only has to do with divine right of kings in European nobility, you would be wrong. In 1988, an article in the New York Times traced fully 13 out of all of the 40 US presidents at the time as having a direct bloodline connection to European nobility. In 2012, a 12-year-old girl named Bridgeanne d'Avignon actually did a much more complex genealogical study of the US presidents using the power of the Internet and computers. On the "School Watch" tonight, the story of a seventh grader from Salinas who claims to have made a major discovery about President Obama. She and her grandfather say that President Obama is related to all but one US president. And she found that 42 out of 43 US presidents all had a common ancestor in King John I from England. And this is not just any old king, this is the guy who actually chartered the Magna Carta which became the defining element that turned into the British Constitution. D'Avignon says she spent countless hours on the Internet over the summer researching the lineage of our presidents, a project that started with her trying to trace her own family tree. But I'm the first historian to do all the presidents. So, that's almost all of the US presidents that we've ever had. The bottom line is, these people are tracking their lineage, they're tracking their bloodline, and they're making sure that their own people get steered into the positions of the highest power and influence worldwide, including the United States of America.

SATHER>>Within secret societies, there can be both good and bad people, white hats and black hats. So, many of these secret societies are, of course, involved in very dark practices. But there are also secret societies out there that are harboring knowledge and information and technology to keep it out of the hands of the deep state or the black hats, or the people that would do detriment with these technologies.

GOODE>>Some of the, I guess, very well-known elites, uh, names I won't mention, but are on the front lobes of most watching this video, are highly involved, not only in some of the slave trade aspects, but are also involved in dealing with non-terrestrials, and dealing with, uh, organized crime down here on Earth, and how it's related to this program.

MIKE RUPPERT>>I will tell you, Director Deutch, as a former Los Angeles police narcotics detective that the agency has dealt drugs throughout this country for a long... Director Deutch, I will refer you to three specific agency operations known as Amadeus, Pegasus and Watchtower. I have Watchtower documents heavily redacted by the agency. I was personally exposed to CIA operations, and recruited by CIA personnel who attempted to recruit me in the late '70s to become involved in protecting agency drug operations in this country. For the record, my name is Mike Ruppert. R-U-P-P-E-R-T. I did bring this information out 18 years ago, and I got shot at and forced out of LAPD because of it. I've been on the record for 18 years non-stop, and I'll be happy to give you congressmen anything that I have.

GOODE>>A lot of these elite are running a lot of, um, financial scams, drug programs to raise money for, uh, these secret programs that they have going on. And they take full advantage of this access.

DAVID ADAIR>>They probably don't age anymore. You know, one percenters, you don't know who they are, you don't even know what they look like, you don't even know their name. They can go down and be at a 7-eleven and you wouldn't even know it. So, they could not age and you wouldn't know it. Never get sick. Um... Offsprings would be born, and they'd be super smart, super strong. Just the quality of life improved in every direction. And, uh, I'm sure the one percenters are enjoying that, while the rest of us are dying with diseases, and malformities and stuff. They walk around, you know, body-beautiful. So, that's... That's just the medical area. Then think about the other things. Transportation, um... The vehicles they travel around, uh... home security, all that stuff. Just, you know, it'd be like somebody in modern suburbia looking at a man in a cave. We're the men in the cave.

GOODE>>What every often occurs is that an elite will get to a very old, ripe age, or they will... and die, or they will die in some sort of an accident publicly. Privately, they are taken, and depending on their level, they're either age-regressed or they have their consciousness basically downloaded into a clone that is an exact duplicate of them. They then disappear from the public eye forever, and go into these programs or go into retirement. This is something that, uh, pops up a lot in the programs, and everyone that has served deeply knows that the elite have access, and many of them never really die.

SATHER>>What the deep state of the cabal or the New World Order is, is a small group of very powerful, but very psychopathic individuals that have acquired a lot of money, a lot of technology, and a lot of information over the course of centuries.

ADAIR>>Definitely your politicians, the older ones. The ones that are chairpeople that command the power. Um, one percenters, chairmen of the boards. Those people, that's they. That's the ones, we never know their names, don't know their faces, and they control all the power.

WILCOCK>>The more you get involved in these societies, the deeper and deeper you go, the more compromised you become. You start to learn more and more of the secret teachings. You have to work really hard for the knowledge. It can take years of time. You keep accessing higher and higher levels of rank, and they keep dropping these little seeds in as you go on. Seeds that start to blossom in your mind and make you think differently. Ultimately, if you go far enough down this road, you will be invited to participate in things like pedophilia and human sacrifice. And if you don't do it, it's the offer you can't refuse. They may actually even kill you. Once you partake in these activities, whether you like them or not, they now have leverage they can use against you. If you ever dare to speak out against this group, they have photographs, they have films, they have the footage that can absolutely ruin your life.

RONALD BERNARD>>These people, most of them, were Luciferians. And then you can say, religion is a fairy tale, God doesn't exist, none of that is real. Well, for these people it is truth and reality and they served something immaterial, what they called Lucifer. And I also in contact with those circles, only I laughed at it because to me they were just clients. So I went to places called Churches of Satan. Yes, so I visited these churches, just as a visitor, dropped by and then they were doing their Holy Mass with naked women and liquor and stuff and it just amused me. I didn't believe in any of this stuff and was far from convinced if any of this was real. It was just a spectacle for me. In my opinion the darkness and evil is within the people themselves. I didn't make the connection yet. So I was a guest in those circles and it amused me greatly to see all those naked women and the other things. It was the good life, but then at some point I was invited, which is why I'm telling you all this, to participate in sacrifices abroad. That was the breaking point. Children. I was asked to do that and I couldn't do that.

SATHER>>The reason that these elite dark occult societies sacrifice and traffic children, first and foremost, is the energy associated with it. So, when a human is in a state of fear and trauma, they release an energy, and this energy can be picked up by, essentially, negative extraterrestrial beings, negative archonic influences, and they feed off of it. They literally feed off of that energetic release of fear and trauma. When these dark groups use children, because a child is not mentally programmed yet as an adult is, they are much more innocent, they're much more connected into their higher selves or into their divine, if you will. The trauma that they release is much more potent than using adults. During these ritualistic practices that the elite participate in, one of the compounds that is released in the children's body during torture, during trauma is a compound called adrenochrome. It's released out of the adrenal gland during highly traumatized incidents, and this adrenochrome acts as, essentially, a drug. These secret societies that make up the deep state are nothing new. This actually spans back thousands and thousands of years, and they have always occulted this information for themselves. We need to understand what occulted actually means. Occulted just simply means "hidden" in Latin. It doesn't necessarily mean good or bad, it just means "hidden". So, these secret society groups have hidden or occulted this information for thousands and thousands of years. They've kept it to themselves and they haven't shared it with anybody outside of their inner circles.

WILCOCK>>The secret societies are really more of a front organization that they use to recruit people, and they will gradually, over time, find out exactly how ruthless and bloodthirsty you are. It is only as you go farther and farther into this, you become embedded with your brothers in a brotherhood, you become more and more involved, you get deeper and deeper in, that then they start hitting you with the really heavy stuff. Until we face, as a society, that these things are actually happening, and that there is a centralized control group that is responsible for this, we will be doomed for these people to continue to exert their control over us. If we don't learn how to respect each other, then we're never going to make any progress. We need to learn from the Me Too movement, and understand that there is corruption, there is rape, there is pedophilia, there is child trafficking, there is human sacrifice, there is cannibalism. And all of these things are happening because there is a hidden elite that actually uses these behaviors as part of their religious sacrament. It actually doesn't matter whether you believe that these people exist or not, the bottom line is that they are actually advertising themselves constantly. They do it in movies. There's a whole set of symbols that you can look for in movies that show their influence. They do it in video games, they do it in television shows. They do it in music videos like crazy. They do it in awards at ceremonies. And it's always in your face. Now is the time for us to get our heads out of the sand and understand that even if these things do seem unthinkable to us, there are people today who are actively practicing this. The evidence is voluminous. And really what it boils down to is that people don't want to look at the evidence because it is so upsetting.

RONALD REAGAN>>In our obsession with antagonisms of the moment, we often forget how much unites all the members of humanity. Perhaps we need some outside, universal threat to make us recognize this common bond. I occasionally think how quickly our differences worldwide would vanish if we were facing an alien threat from outside this world. And yet, I ask you, is not an alien force already among us?

THE PROGRAMS

GOODE>>Solar Warden went active 1980, 1981. It was funded, in large part, by SDI through President Reagan. Though, that money was funneled off in many different programs. Solar Warden was developed to do exactly what its namesake says, to police our, um, solar system. We were now able... We had the technology to prevent these, uh, interloper, ET races from coming into our solar system, grabbing our people, and leaving. We could now stop them. So, Solar Warden was developed, and it began to do its job of policing the solar system. At the same time, we had the Interplanetary Corporate Conglomerate, which is made up of all of these military-industrial complex corporations. Uh, we have all of these other programs that are developing technology at the same time, and are developing much, much more advanced technologies, so advanced, in fact, that there are ET races that come here to trade for our technology.

WILCOCK>>Corey Goode is the one insider I found whose testimony ties all of these different threads together. I've heard Corey have knowledge of something that each of the different other insiders I've spoken to had said to me in the past. Nobody else had ever done that before. And that was fascinating because I had not put this information online. The information was proprietary, it was things that I'd heard over the course of conversations that could have gone on for many, many dozens of hours over time, spreading across about 20 years' worth of my own past history.

GOODE>>I think they chose children for these MILAB programs in several different ways. They had to profile them. They definitely used standardized testing and a few other ways to identify whether they had a skill or a talent that they needed. Then they would check out their family life. They preferred children from broken homes or from homes that, uh, were not harmonious because the children who were used to getting smacked around, they were used to stressful environments, and, uh... And the parents were not always as attentive as other parents. Therefore, the children were able to handle a lot more stress and their parents, uh, may not notice, you know, certain behavior in the kids. Well, I guess you would say, typical day, if there is a typical day in the life of a MILAB, would be your parents dropping you off at school, just like any other day, and, except that day, you're pulled aside and told you're gonna go on a field trip. You're in a special education class or, uh, an accelerated learning class, you're special. You're being taken off campus to go, you know, look at dinosaurs. Well, you are taken, put in a van, usually, a person is driving that is military-looking, sometimes in uniform. They would then drive us for little over an hour to Carswell Air Force Base. We parked inside this hangar that was a motor pool, and we walked to the back, and there was an elevator. And the elevator went down quite a ways. And when we came out, we were underground in a Cold War era-type, uh, bunker. That would then lead us to another set of elevators that would take us down where we would get on underground trams that would, uh... They were trains that would take us over 500 miles per hour anywhere in the world. When we were sent to one of these locations through one of these shuttles, we would then go through, sometimes because of travel time, we would only get 45 minutes of training in, sometimes two to three hours of training in, then we would go back, be debriefed, and they would give us a chemical through a shot, and they would sit us in a chair in front of a movie screen, and basically hypnotize us, and give us a screen memory of going to a museum and looking at dinosaurs. They would then put us in the same van, drive us back to school, let us out, and as our parents picked us up, we would tell them all about looking at dinosaurs.

SATHER>>MK-Ultra was a program done by the CIA in the 1950s and '60s. And within MK-Ultra, they experimented with trauma-based mind control through the use of electroshock therapy, through the use of mind-altering drugs, through the use of even hypnotic progression and many other techniques to figure out how to control and program human beings.

ARIZONA WILDER>>There was programming at bases, the US military bases, um, because they won't have any interference, uh, when they had someone on a military base. And a lot of my programming took place on military bases. Uh, I would like to talk about the fact that there are rituals done at the military bases also, and that rituals are not a cover. The people that do the mind control are involved, and rituals are very much a part of how they do things. For example, Naval Intelligence members, or people that are in Naval Intelligence, are usually very involved with Ordo Templi Orientis. And that doesn't mean that everyone in Naval Intelligence is involved in that. But Naval Intelligence is responsible for a lot of overseeing of ritual activity in this country. And they are responsible for a lot of this going on. There are other organizations, other, um, agencies involved, but Naval Intelligence is very involved.

NIARA ISLEY>>We were taken to some kind of facility out on the Nevada desert, and for a long time, I thought it was Area 51. But there was also another underground facility at Tonopah. So, either Area 51 or the Tonopah facility. I was taken to a medical dispensary type of place, and I was sat down in a waiting room with the lights off. Everything they did seemed to be to cover memory. To make sure that if anybody did remember anything, being in a room with the lights off, you wouldn't be able to see the people clearly, things like that. I was given fatigues to wear that night, uh, with no rank insignia, no name tags, no identifying marks of any kind, was forbidden to speak to the other people that I was out there with, beyond what was necessary to run the tests. So... the situation they put us in was very isolating and very frightening. Uh, terrifying, actually. So, we got to this facility, we sat down in this waiting room with the lights off, and I still see it really clearly, I could draw a picture. And, uh... One by one, we had to go off to the side in this little room. Finally they called my name and I went into the little room. It was a small room. There was a security guard in there in, uh, desert camel fatigues, wearing a sidearm. He was standing at the parade rest. And I was told to lay down on this stainless steel examining table that looked old, like it was maybe from the '40s or '50s. I lay down on there, fully clothed, didn't have to take anything off. And I waited for a long time, with that security guard watching me. Then, finally, some guy in a white lab coat came in the same door I had gone in, uh, to the room in, and he said, "Stay calm" three times in this really deadpan monotone voice. He walked past the security guard, up the right side of the table, got up to the right side of my head, and then, uh... He had a hypodermic needle hidden in the sleeve of his lab coat, and he injected me in the side of the neck right here. And whatever the chemical was went straight to my brain. So, I'm... I'm kind of in shock from whatever this injection is doing to me 'cause it went straight to the brain, and I was like, you know, in shock. Um, suddenly, there's two guys on either side of that table, pulling me up by the arms, and, uh, dragging me off the table and down through this doorway where there was a long flight of stairs going down. For some reason, I remember it as one long flight going down. Not switchbacks, like a lot of staircases are. It was just... straight down. They half-carried me, half-dragged me down those stairs. And at the bottom of the stairs, there was, like, this little room that had a one-way mirror in it. And I went through the effects of that injection in that room, and I felt like, uh... I've described it so many ways down through the years, um... It was kind of like feeling like your body is turning to soda pop fizz or beer foam. It's just, uh, like, you know, when your leg goes to sleep, and it comes back and there's all the pins and needles, and tingling, and everything else like that. It was like that was happening to my whole body, but super-duper intense pins and needles. And... and I just curled up on the floor and just screamed because it was just... doing this number on me, you know. And I felt like I was coming apart, somehow. I don't know why or how I thought that, but that's how my body felt, it felt like it was just kind of coming apart, and running down a drain in the floor. And I had a feeling because that mirrored thing on the wall, I think it was one-way mirror, and they were looking at me through the mirror to watch me go through the effects of this. And I racked my brain to try to come up with some idea of what this injection was and what it was for, and the only thing I've been able to come up with is maybe they were trying to create a chemical version of ascension.

GOODE>>One of the technologies that I was exposed to while in the MILAB programs were the chemical cocktails they would use on us. They would use them to enhance us in many different ways. Some of the ways that we would be enhanced would be if they discovered we had an intuitive empath ability. There was a cocktail that they would give us that would enhance it, make it manyfold stronger. They would also give cocktails to people that would, um... They would have hormones in them that would make them stronger, faster, and think quicker. Major part of the program was that, when you started, they were not quite sure where they would send you. A lot of the kids that were in these programs, they would end up in different syndicates here on the Earth, working for the cabal, and a small percentage, very small, would end up going into the Secret Space Program.

MAX SPIERS>>Certain children were picked who had certain DNA. I was connected with that. And what they did was, when we were, like, five and six years old, they took us there, and, um... they trained us, and we did, um... We learned, and we trained, and we did all sorts of operations when we were there. Now, when I was five years old, my parents moved to Los Angeles at the time, out of the blue. Out of the blue. And I was living on Sepulveda Boulevard. And the Mars Jump Rooms for children were at 999 Sepulveda Boulevard, I now know. So, and I didn't know... So, I had these memories before I knew that, this particular information about these Mars Jump Rooms on Sepulveda Boulevard. It was a lot of training. So, say from five years old to 25 years old was spent there, and I know some of the people now who are back here, but what they did then at the end of the, um, Mars... at the end of that thing - is they used age regression technology. - Mmm-hmm. Brought us back to five years old, and then placed us exactly back to where we were.

GOODE>>The reason so few went into the Secret Space Program was that most of the participants, almost all of the participants, are pooled from various military branches. They, uh, bring people in to the military, send them through training, testing, find out where their skills lean, and if they have a fortitude for this type of mission, and then they are invited in or drafted in, and they'll serve a 20-year term. And this is referred to as a "20 & Back." And after that 20 years, they are actually age regressed, and regressed back in time using the technology that was handed to us by non-terrestrials and then they were buttoned up in time and placed back in their life. And then they finish off the rest of their military term, and then return to civilian life, having no memory of serving in the Secret Space Program. The whole point of regressing people back in time after serving in the 20 & Back and wiping their memory has to do with a deal that was made with an extraterrestrial group that gave us that technology. There's a Nordic group that are engaged in a time and space battle with a reptilian group. This battle's gone on for many thousands of years.

SATHER>When delving into this research, some people formulate ideas that there's only good extraterrestrials here or there's only bad extraterrestrials here. But we need to understand that the Law of Polarity is universal. There is both good or benevolent extraterrestrials here to help us, and there is negative extraterrestrials here to essentially feed off of us and traumatize us into a state of fear. These negative extraterrestrial species involve some gray species, they also involve many reptilian species, and many non-physical archonic entities that can also remotely influence and utilize much of that fear energy and traumatized energy that we release.

GOODE>>Towards the end of my training, it started to become pretty clear that I had done very well in the intuitive empath training. I had done very well in the rest of the general training that I was given, and I was starting to be introduced to non-terrestrial beings. So, it became very obvious that I was gonna be interacting with non-terrestrials, and I assumed it was going to be in an off-world environment. Little did I know that I was going to be drafted in this program when I was 16 years old. And it was during my Christmas break, between the age of 16 and 17 years old. I turned 17 in February. I was taken from my room, I was then taken to Carswell Air Force Base, I was then transported to the Moon, where I sat and signed a bunch of papers that were non-disclosures. Were, uh... Just a big stack of papers, signing my life away, when I wasn't even 17 years old yet. The Lunar Operations Command is a Moon base, and it was built out originally by the Germans in the late 1930s, early 1940s. Uh, while they were building this complex, they had utilized an ancient alien building that was not too terribly far away. They had found a bunch of these buildings on the Moon, and they had found one of the buildings that they were able to patch up with some of the concrete they made from the local regolith. They then were able to pressurize it and use it as a base of operations while they built out the Lunar Operation Command. After a number of years, and after Operation Paperclip, it, uh, served its purpose and integrated the Nazis into the military-industrial complex. The LOC was handed over to the Americans. When approaching the Moon from Earth, in an electrogravitic craft, you will find the Moon will be at a distance, and then it will grow very quickly in front of you. And then the next thing you know, you are above the surface. You will then fly in the electrogravitic craft at breakneck speeds, except you don't feel inertia. You find yourself hugging maybe 90 feet, 300 feet above the lunar surface, going at incredible speeds until you reach a crater. And then you find yourself orbiting a crater. The person piloting the craft... radios in, requesting permission to land. You don't see anywhere to land. All of a sudden, a little haze kind of occurs, and then there's a base. It's a Lunar Operation Command. And as you fly down and over, there is, uh, a control tower where they, uh, control the air traffic. As you fly around this base to make your final approach, you see a secondary crater. And as you fly down into that crater, it's fairly deep, and you end up popping out into a lava tube section, where you immediately see a giant building built into the middle of that lava tube that blocks it. And it's built kind of like the shape of a bell.

And it looks like the outside of a battleship, almost, the way it's built. You then fly in and land in the bay, and you're now at the Lunar Operation Command.

MARK MCCANDLISH>>Well, some of the testimonies coming to me over the last year in particular has been, um, nothing short of startling, in terms of, um, the degree to which the Space Program, the Secret Space Program has expanded. Um, I've talked to people who have said that, uh, there is and has been an ongoing extrasolar planetary colonization program that's been going on for decades and decades. I mean... To the point where one of the people who had actually gone, and this was a claim that he made, that he was on a warp-capable spacecraft that went from here to the edge of the Andromeda Galaxy in 20 minutes. And that when they got there, they've located at least eight Earth-like planets in some of the star systems along the edge of the galaxy, and eight of those planets had human life on them. They were Earth-sized planets with Sun-like stars, stars similar to our Sun, at approximately same distances. Uh, they wound up, um, using some kind of radio telemetry sensors to determine, uh, which ones were broadcasting in conventional radio and television signals. They found two planets like that, two of which were speaking English. And the minute I heard this, I thought, "Well, this is complete baloney or this system, this whole program has been going on for a lot longer than anybody would dream." But he described seeing cities, and roads, and cars, and people in conventional clothing, speaking English. And there is only one way that that's possible other than, you know, parallel universe type of scenario, and that is that the program has been going on for much, much longer. Right after about the six-year mark, in my 20 & Back experience, I found out some very disturbing details that no one on the ship knew about, and, well, almost knew. I was approached by a petty officer, Wheeler, someone who I honestly had a crush on, and she used that to her advantage. She needed me and an engineer to help her get into a room, a restricted room, and look into some pods. She wanted to know what was in those pods. She had a bad feeling. Well, I, uh, helped... We helped her get in, and I was standing watch. She and the engineer opened up one of the pods, and they were, uh, cryogenic chambers. And they were full of people that had basically been treated, looked like they'd been fileted and cleaned, then sent to the market. While I saw this a little bit from a distance, some gas was escaping from this pod. It overcame the petty officer and the engineer, and they collapsed. And before... As I was turning to run through the door I was watching through, I collapsed. After I came to in, uh, the sick bed, they had explained that the two others had died in the accident, and that I was being held for debriefing. I was then debriefed, told not to repeat the information to anyone else, if I wasn't a valuable intuitive empath, my fate would've been much different. So, they sent me back to my regular duties, and told me that from time to time, I was gonna be pulled over, uh, to work on a different deck on a different project. And this project was basically a galactic slave trade. It turned out that, uh, for many decades, while we were developing the technology to try to fight some of the negative ETs, there were extraterrestrials that were coming into our solar system, were coming to our planet, would swoop down, and kidnap people and leave, and then take them and trade them off into some sort of galactic slave trade that's going on. After a while, the benevolent powers that be decided, "You know what? This is a commodity. If we start culling our own people, and trading them off to these extraterrestrials, we can get trinkets, we can get technology, we can get biologicals." And that's what happened. They would trade human beings for biological samples, much like what Emery Smith would end up receiving in his lab, and doing different experiments on, and they would, uh, also get technology. And they would trade the humans off. The humans would, uh, go off to be used in any number of ways. Humans are a very coveted, not... People aren't only leaving to be food for reptilians, that's a small percentage. Most of them are being used for their skills. Humans are very well-known for our engineering, our creativity, our ability to, uh, bring things from our mind and create them and engineer them. And strangely enough, uh, we are coveted and used in that fashion. So, the cabal group has been basically utilizing human beings as a resource. So, these little key groups of people from all of these different programs started to join and work very quietly and secretly to not only find out the full truth of what was going on, but find the way to combat it. The SSP Alliance is a very small fraction of the overall Secret Space Program or Secret Space Programs. You know, under one percent. So, the only technology that they have is what they brought with them when they defected. It is a ragtag group that is doing their best to bring full disclosure to humanity. They don't want a slow, protracted disclosure, they want all of these technologies... given to all of humanity at once. Not to any one group, any one country, to everyone at once. And that is what the Secret Space Program Alliance has been working for.

WILCOCK>>The collective story that these insiders have shared with me is much bigger than where the UFO community had been going up until then. And thus, it has utterly revolutionized the whole basic discussion of what everyone is now talking about. Whether they agree with it or not, everyone has had to deal with the concept of the Secret Space Program.

DEBT SLAVE SYSTEM

DONALD RUMSFELD>>According to some estimates, we cannot track $2.3 trillion in transactions.

SATHER>>On September 10th, 2001, the day before 9/11, then Secretary of Defense, Donald Rumsfeld, testified in front of congressmen about $2.3 trillion missing from the Pentagon. In 2015, an Inspector General report came out detailing that that number grew from $2.3 trillion to $6.5 trillion missing from the Pentagon. This money is going into unacknowledged projects both above our heads and below ground, into deep underground military bases, and Secret Space Programs with technology far beyond what many of us can even realize.

PHIL SCHNEIDER>>Our black budget, for instance, garners $1.023 trillion every two years. That's over $500 billion a year. Right now, there are 131 active... deep underground military bases in the United States. There's 1,477 of them worldwide. Each one has an average cost of 17 to 19 billion dollars. Each one is, uh, built in the site of... It used to be, it'd take a year to two years to build each one, and now they're capable of building a couple of 'em a year, uh, with sophisticated methods. Area 51 is only one base, one of the 131 bases. Of these 131 bases, I call Area 51 a "megabase." It's got more than one base in it. Tonopah Test Range, Area 51, S2, S4, Groom Lake, and a host of others. Now, these megabases... are gobbling up our gross national product. Right now, we're spending 28% of the gross national product on building underground bases solely.

WILCOCK>>China has built 50 different ghost cities that collectively are built to hold an estimated 64 million inhabitants. The apartment buildings, the roads, all of the infrastructure, all the plumbing, all the electrical, everything you need for a city, and there's nobody there, fifty cities, 64 million people. Now remember, China's gross domestic product is $11.2 trillion. They're not even spending a majority of their gross domestic product on these ghost cities, and yet they have the money to do it. It's only cost them a few trillion dollars. So, once you start thinking about it that way, you start to see how much money a thousand billion dollars really is. A billion dollars is a lot. If you're a billionaire, you can do anything you want. A thousand billion dollars is a sum of money that just gets dropped out there with this word, "trillion," but we're not really thinking about how it literally can build an entire civilization. The articles on China's ghost cities refer to it as China's multibillion-dollar debt, not a debt in the trillions. In fact, in 2016, one estimate that I saw showed that the total estimated debt that China has gone into to build these ghost cities is only $2.5 trillion. Now that's 50 different cities that hold 64 million people, just because they think that as they continue to have a population boom, they need a place where these people can eventually go. But literally nobody is there right now. So, imagine what that means when you start tossing around a figure of the two big to fail banks needing a bailout, that according to Senator Ron Paul, was $29 trillion. You're talking about over ten times the amount of money that China needed to build 50 different ghost cities that can hold millions and millions and millions of people. So then the question is, where did all this money go? The total amount of money in the world in the 2008 year of the collapse, the gross world product or GWP was only $60 trillion. So the theft of 29 trillion from the printed-out-of-hot-air US dollar is half of the wealth of the entire world. Try to wrap your head around this because what I'm telling you is, from all the insiders I've been speaking to for the last 20 years, they are building civilizations. It's just not above ground, where we see it on the surface of the planet. There is vast amounts of underground drilling, there are huge caverns, 20, 30 miles wide that they've built out into gorgeous, elaborate cities, and they're building entire civilizations on planets and moons in our solar system. This is where the money is going.

MIKE RUPERT>>Well, I have a copy of the Inspector General Act here in front of me, and it says, among other things, that it's your responsibility, to conduct and supervise audits and investigations relating to the programs and operations of your agency.

FEDERAL RESERVE>>That's correct.

RUPERT>>So, I'm asking you if your agency has in fact, according to Bloomberg, extended $9 trillion in credit, which, by the way, works out to $30,000 for every single man, woman, and child in this country. I'd like to know if you're not responsible for investigating that, who is?

FR>>At this point, we're at a very... We're conducting our lending facility project at a fairly high level and have not gotten to a specific level of detail to really be in a position to respond to your question.

RUPERT>>Have you conducted any investigation or auditing of the losses that the Federal Reserve has experienced on its lending since last September?

FR>>We are still in the process of conducting that review. Until we actually go out and gather the information, I'm not in a position to really respond to this specific question.

RUPERT>>So, are you telling me that nobody at the Federal Reserve is keeping track on a regular basis of the losses that it incurs on what is now a $2 trillion portfolio?

FR>>Until we actually look at the program and have the information, we are not in a position to say whether there are losses or to respond in any other way to that particular...

RUPERT>>Mr. Chairman, my time is up, but I have to tell you honestly, I am shocked to find out that nobody at the Federal Reserve, including the Inspector General, is keeping track of this.

SATHER>>What's amazing is that right now we are seeing the very first audit of the Pentagon ever. And this audit could very well begin to expose the trillions and trillions, upwards of even 21 trillion, if not more money than that, begin to be exposed, and we might even find out, very soon, where all this money actually went.

WILCOCK>>Let's go back now to the LIBOR scandal that happened in the wake of the 2008 economic collapse. LIBOR is an acronym that stands for London Interbank Offered Rate. And what we're finding is that these two big TO fail banks are only appearing to be in competition with each other. The LIBOR scandal revealed that these guys are calling each other on the phone, colluding about how to rig their own interest rates, so that one appears to be winning, one appears to be losing, but they are actually like branch offices of a single larger corporation. All of the apparent competition, "Oh, these guys' stock is going down. Oh, it's a bloodbath." No, no, no. They're doing all this together. They're competing only on paper, when, in fact, it's collusion. This is financial organized crime on such a massive scale, How can you arrest all the banks? They are too big to fail. This gets into a law that was passed in the United States in 1970 called the RICO Act, which stands for Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations. And that act was built to be able to take down massively organized crime. None of this really makes sense until you get back into the idea of the Federal Reserve System. Now, up until the Federal Reserve was founded in 1913, the United States essentially was in control of its own currency. The same banking cartel that we've been talking about worked behind the scenes to create a series of fake economic crises in the late 1800s and early 1900s, which caused regular Americans to have their savings wiped out. This became such a crisis that people were desperately calling for reform. And then the government comes along and says, "Look, we're bribed, corrupt politicians. We don't really know what we are doing." They have spokespeople saying these kinds of things in the media. Let's bring in the investors. Let's bring in the British bankers, the people who really know how to make money. They've been doing it for a long time, they're not just gonna hold an office for a few years and go disappear. They are the guys who really understand how to run a financial system. So, what did we do? We handed over the issuance of American currency to a private corporation of private bankers. When you see "Federal Reserve Note" on the US dollar, that means it's printed by the Federal Reserve. The Federal Reserve, since they came into power just over a century ago, has eroded the purchasing power of the US Dollar by 99%. So, what was really going on there? Do you think that these investors built up the equity of the United States, made us more profitable? It's exactly the opposite. We have been living in a prolonged economic depression. They just don't call it that because the metrics that we use to measure the economy are coming from a rigged system, just like we saw with LIBOR. Don't bother to look at the Dow Jones. Don't bother to look at the Nasdaq. That has nothing to do with the reality of everyone else, and how hard it has become to earn a living. The complete wiping out of the middle class. You have rich, and you have poor. And even among the rich, you then have super rich people, where a concentrated small cluster of individuals have so much wealth that it could feed entire nations, entire peoples. So, this is something that is an economic inequality that must be addressed, and the only way that we're ever really going to learn this is by a collective massive understanding.

JOHN DESOUSA>>>I say the elite powers in control, which is nothing... Which is really the same as these, uh, central banking dynasties that are basically sitting over the nations. They are a form of global government, except that they are not a government at all, they are just dominants. They are dominants, they are the ones that issue the orders to all the nations, uh, as we saw clearly in 1947 after Roswell. We saw these elite powers in control issue these orders to all the nations that anything real that comes up, in regards to alien visitors or UFOs, must immediately be covered up at all costs, no matter what. And that was first, uh... That was how that wall, embargo of truth, that Berlin Wall went up originally in 1947. And that's an example of them in action over the nations. And that's the reason why... why disclosure and the images that conjures up in our minds is not a real thing really because the nations, whether you're talking about the United States or anyplace else, they don't have the actual agenda of aliens to reveal. They're not in the inside of that, they really aren't. Nations just follow orders. That's all they do. And that's what they're doing now, and that's what they always do. And when you see them all doing something strange or something that seems out of the ordinary, uh, it's because they're following the orders of the elite powers in control.

DONALD TRUMP>>>We stand at the birth of a new millennium, ready to unlock the mysteries of space, to free the Earth from the miseries of disease, and to harness the energies, industries, and technologies of tomorrow. A new national pride will stir our souls, lift our sights, and heal our divisions. It's time to remember that old wisdom our soldiers will never forget, that whether we are black or brown or white, we all bleed the same red blood of patriots.

SUPPRESSED TECHNOLOGY

GOODE:After the inauguration, the President signed a number of secret memorandums stating that he wanted the release of advanced technology that... And a lot of this technology was involved in the space program, and he was very aware of it. We know that President Trump is aware of advanced technologies because his uncle [John G. Trump at MIT] was the one who went in and cleared out the safe of Tesla after his death. So, we are fairly sure that President Trump grew up bouncing on his uncle's knee, hearing stories of free energy. Aside from the Secret Space Program Alliance, we have a different alliance. It is made up of all of these countries that have been fighting against this cabal for 50 years or so. It is also made up of various military groups that had broken away from the cabal, such as elements of the United States military, intelligence groups have broken away and have been participating with a lot of other breakaway groups in trying to overthrow the cabal, who took over the United States back in the 1960s, around 1963. This Alliance, Earth Alliance, began to get more and more organized. And they got organized to a point to where some of them approached some generals, and told them that they wanted to do an open coup in the United States. These generals decided they'd make one last-ditch attempt to get rid of the cabal legally. And that's when they approached Trump, allegedly, to run for President and allow them to legally get the country back, basically.

WILCOCK>>>The Alliance is an international group. It is a confederacy. There are lots of different factions, some of which agree, some of which do not agree, about the only thing that they all have in common, is they want to see this satanic, pedophile, elitist cabal come down in flames. They do not want these people trying to kill off most of the planet, trying to control all of this immensely high technology. The alliance also consists of a surprising majority now, of personnel in the US military and in the US intelligence community. So, we're going to have to deal with the fact sooner or later, and probably sooner, that not everybody in the government is bad. This is part of the psyop that was put out through movies and through media to get us to completely distrust all levels of society, all of the institutions, so that no one will ever be able to oppose these people. You're not gonna do this by a bunch of keyboard warriors on the internet. They're not gonna actually take the solid action that needs to be taken. What you do need to see is what we now are counting up in August 2018 as 45,000 sealed indictments. Now, this is on the official US government court record. You can go to the pacer.gov website, which lists all of the lawsuits, and all of the indictments filed in all of the different districts in America, and just count up the sealed indictments. The official count, the undisputed count is 45,000, and the normal number for any given year is approximately 1,000. Now this is a very, very big story that people are really not seeing exactly how awesome this is.

Let's talk about what do you have to do to get a sealed indictment? Okay, a sealed indictment is the result of a secret grand jury proceeding. Now what is a secret grand jury? A secret grand jury requires a panel of 12 to 23 US citizens, who are then given information and testimony from a prosecutor. The prosecutor is prosecuting a particular individual who is not invited to the proceedings, has no idea this is going on, and in legal terms, that's called ex parte. So, he is... He or she is testified against by the prosecutor, and then the jury has to decide if there is sufficient cause to prosecute this person with a crime, in which case, they file a sealed indictment. The indictment stays off the record, you don't get to know the person's name until they unseal it, at which point the person is immediately arrested. And then they get to have the regular trial by jury with a judge. But you have to understand that the prosecutor is either a federal US Attorney, a county district attorney, or a state attorney general. These are big, big league of players. This is not some attorney that you hire in Podunk, okay? These are major players creating major indictments. And the reason why they do it this way is that they are prosecuting organized crime. Typically, that's what it is. They are prosecuting a larger ring, where they can't indict one person at a time. They have to get all their ducks in a row, they have to line it all up, so that when they unseal the indictments, everybody gets arrested at once, and there is no ability for them to tip each other off if something happened, so that the rats can flee off of the sinking ship. They all get nailed at once.

SATHER>>The phenomenon known as Q or QAnon came onto the scene at the very end of October 2017. And what essentially occurred is that group that called themselves Q began posting on anonymous online image boards called 4chan and 8chan. And what they were posting was a lot of questions, a lot of suggestions, a lot of very interesting and intriguing data sets that essentially laid out a real-time takedown of the deep state by Alliance and white hat groups behind the scenes. As the QAnon briefings recently stated, these indictments are going to be like Watergate times a thousand. We've never seen anything like this in the history of the world. Some of the most recent QAnon briefings which our insiders have told us is coming from the Alliance, have said that there are many, many figures in the controlled mainstream media who are in these indictments as well. So, Harvey Weinstein is just the beginning. And isn't it interesting that when Harvey Weinstein was finally arrested, in his hand, he had the biography of Elia Kazan, who was a guy in early Hollywood history who was brought in during the McCarthy investigations, and sang like a songbird, and ratted out many other people in Hollywood. And Weinstein has now said he is doing the same thing, and that everybody in Hollywood was doing the same stuff that he was doing. So he was upset about why he got singled out. So, once these indictments become unsealed, this will be the fulfillment of the mass arrest scenario that I have been leaking on my website since 2009. The only two indictments that we've had unsealed so far involved the cult group Nxivm. The founder of Nxivm, Keith Raniere, and one of his understudies, the actress Allison Mack. These are the only two unsealed court records so far. And their unsealed indictments actually labeled child sex trafficking on them, and Nxivm has found to be a hot bed of cult activity of ritual abuse, and of child sex abuse even. So, if these are the only two records that have been unsealed so far, and they are taking down names of this caliber with charges of this caliber, we can only imagine what the rest of these unsealed indictments are going to show us. This is nothing new, it didn't start with the QAnon briefings, has nothing to do with who is President of The United States right now, this is a decades-long effort in the making, and they have tried and tried and tried in various ways to get this to work, they've had consistent failures, and now they're being much more systematic and much more methodical. It's all gonna be done legally. All of the indictments are totally bona fide, and it's just that once this finally happens, it will be something we have never seen before in all of American history, a true second American Revolution.

DESOUZA>>>One of the things I learnt as an FBI agent is not that I learned to believe in conspiracies more. What I learned to know is when I am caught up in a river of deception, and everybody else around me is being taken on the same current, and we are all being taken in one direction, and suddenly one guy has to stick his head up and say, "This isn't right. This is all wrong.

We're all just being fed garbage, and we're not being told the truth." Well, how is it that technology in today's age, our technology has moved forward by leaps and bounds in so many areas, yet we're still driving, the entire world is still driving automobiles that function essentially on the same technology that they have for 100 years. A hundred years, and we're still using fossil fuels to fill up our gas tanks. How is that possible that that has not moved forward hardly one iota? I mean, they blend the stuff sometimes, but... I mean, essentially, that technology has been stuck for 100 years. Well, that's because that's one of the economic factors from the globalists that is so dead set against distributing real energy, which is free energy, which we know was discovered during Tesla's time.

SATHER>>>So, Nikola Tesla is known, of course, for delving into free energy or zero-point energy sciences but funny enough, near the end of Nikola Tesla's life, he was actually delving into antigravity research, and unfortunately, Tesla didn't have enough time nor money, towards the end of his life, to be able to continue his research into antigravity, but he passed along his knowledge to a man named Otis Carr. And funny story about that, Nikola Tesla was staying in a hotel in New York, near the end of his career, and during his stay at this hotel, he befriended one of the workers that was there, and that was Otis Carr. And they courted a relationship, and Nikola Tesla actually felt comfortable enough to begin sharing some of his research with Otis Carr. Now Otis Carr then went, after Nikola Tesla's passing, to develop this research out a little bit more so, and Otis Carr actually developed what was called the OTC-X1, I believe, and it was actually a flying saucer craft that was piloted with the consciousness of the individual, and he did, supposedly, actual experiments that were successful in navigating both space and time with this craft. So, we could say Otis Carr actually was the first person to develop or begin to develop a civilian-based space program. But he was essentially run out of business, and was not able to continue the work he was doing because the military-industrial complex suppressed his work.

DESOUZA>>>But the same forces that destroyed that, I mean, at that time, uh, supposedly, was Thomas Edison, who was a part of the global system. I mean, he was... He was the original, fossil fuels and normal electricity system, and he was supposedly... But he was just a front man to destroy Tesla, and destroy his, uh... Because the efforts to destroy his patents came from national government, not just Edison and his private conglomerate that had billions of dollars even at that time. Uh, and the reason for that is why? Because this effort to repress free energy was coming from the elite powers in control, the ones that sit on top of everybody, and tell everybody, "We've got to stop this." And what we're seeing today, of course, is that free energy is like a dam that's sprouting leaks, and is getting ready to burst forward because it is coming, it's coming really soon because it's been out there for so long and I think we are getting to the point where it is going to come forward. And it's gonna come forward maybe from several sources at the same time because the pressure has built up so much from so many different sources. So, I think we are going to get it very soon.

DR BOB WOOD>>I was asked to give a paper at Vandenberg Air Force Base to the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics. And their normal request would have been, "Tell us how you are trying to get new business using advanced technology." That was my job, to run 250 guys with different disciplines to try to get new business. But instead I surprised them by saying, "I want to give a talk called 'The Giant Discoveries of Future Science.'" And there was a moment of silence and, "Okay." So... So, I developed this talk, and in this talk, what I had established was... I distinguished the difference between engineering and science, engineers being people who wanna build something and make it work, they don't really care how they get there, and the scientists, they wanna know the "truth." I made that distinction, and then I gave examples of ten scientific facts that are essentially established. You know, the Earth evolved by gradual processes, and there were Maxwell's equations of the right-hand screw, and Einstein's $E=mc^2$, that was all good. Then I took these ten greatest achievements by the ten scientists and asked what could we tell about these ten. And the interesting thing was that you could tell three things. Number one: Not a single one of them was known in their field. Number two: Every single one of them had been criticized by their peers as being stupid or charlatans. And number three: The average age was 23 when they made their discovery. Hmm. So, I took that thought and wrote down a list of what I thought were the 12 greatest discoveries of the future - that we had to attack. - Mmm-hmm. And the first one was how the UFOs work, the second was time travel... Well, not... Time travel was towards the end. The processes of the brain and the mind, uh, psychic discoveries, uh, psychokinesis, that sort of thing, a bunch of those things were on the list. The amazing thing is that today, in 2017, I am satisfied that my list that I said would maybe... And I give a probability of discovering these things, you know, 20 years from now. Mmm-hmm. My list was essentially already discovered, every single one, including time travel, at the time that I reviewed this paper.

ADAIR>>>My engine's complete. I rebuilt it. I have the entire package sitting and outsourced on the servers around the planet. Uh, upon my death, the servers dump everything onto the web. And I mean everything. Blueprints, schematics, diagrams, lists of materials, lists of tools, lists of suppliers that would help me get the tools, um, dimensions, three-dimensional working models. You'll be able to recon... Any normal lab would be able to reconstruct this thing, and get the same results I did, And, uh, I want that done because that would be validation of technology, but once it's built, it's not gonna sit there, they're gonna use it. And, um... I expect, in a year's time, once that kind of technology is done, they build it, they start using it, oil is reduced to a lubricant planetwide, and that's it. That's the first step. Imagine what will happen next. I don't wanna be around. That's the reason I... It would be a media circus and I'm just not into that, so I'll just leave it behind, and y'all can play with it, do with it what you want.

A MOVEMENT BEGINS

GOODE>>>So, how do we hear all of this information and not feel disempowered? How does it not feel hopeless? Well, I look back, when I start to feel hopeless, to the reports of legitimate ET contacts that have occurred in the '40s, '50s and '60s. In all of those reports, the ETs asked two things. "Grow spiritually or expand your consciousness, and demand the release of suppressed technologies from your governments." Those are the two things that we can focus on. If we begin to organize and demand the release of suppressed technologies, they'll have no choice. If we focus inwardly on whatever our religion is, becoming the best human being that we can, and expanding our consciousness beyond our comfortable belief systems, when we do those two things, we are going to gain the freedom that we desire.

ISLEY>>>I started realizing that the cabal or the Illuminati, or whatever you want to call 'em, they keep us fighting with each other intentionally because they know that the potential in our unified consciousness, should we ever come together and stop fighting with each other, is extremely powerful. And they have been using that energy against us, like farming and managing our consciousness in such a way that we spin out a version of reality from the thoughts they program into us that makes the matrix. Just like in The Matrix films. And so, we have made the matrix that's our prison. We made it from our consciousness and our thoughts that's been managed, farmed, programmed, and controlled. And if that's true, then we have the power within ourselves to come together and stop fighting with each other and remake the world. And emotion is key. We are not taught anything about how to deal with our emotions in this world. It's like a big black hole, and we just spurt emotional energy all over the place, like an out-of-control garden hose. You know, would we waste money like that, in most cases? Would we waste gasoline in our car that way? No. Well, we need to look at our emotional energy the same way because that's the big key, and we have powerful emotions as human beings. And that means a lot of emotional power. But the only way that we can wield it is to come together and find our commonalities and built on those, and stop looking at our ideologies that might divide us, and our beliefs that might divide us, We've got to come together, we got to focus on the fact we're all human beings. We all have hearts, and souls, and conscience. And we need to look at what brings us together, and then we need to take the emotional energy of that love and connection and make that really, really powerful, and then release it intentionally in waves of consciousness, energy, and power that can remake this world and the matrix it's based on, in ways that we want, for ourselves, for our children, for our grandchildren, for all the animals and the environment. We can remake it, just through the power of consciousness. We can get full disclosure just through the power of consciousness. But we can only wield this energy together, and we can only wield it with love for each other and the planet.

MICHAELSALLA>>We're at the early stages of this movement, and every movement, you know, whether we're talking about the civil rights movement, the abolition movement, the women's rights movement, uh, it's always once it reaches a kind of like, uh, a critical mass, then the political changes happen.

WILCOCK>>So, this is a very, very compelling story. I do believe that it's time for all of us to take a stand. We cannot simply step back and allow all these things to happen. Even if we don't fully believe everything that the people in this movie and other insiders like them have been saying, it's worthy of our consideration. Can we really afford to be so ignorant as to turn our backs on this information? We don't have the time to sit around and argue about whether this information is true. The planet is dying. We have economic collapse. We have mass starvation. We have the largest mass extinctions since the collapse of the dinosaurs. Our ecosphere is collapsing. We see the lack of water. We see ever-increasing global temperatures. And no one really is doing anything about it. The entrenched power structure stays the way it is. We're still burning fossil fuels. We're still not getting access to these amazing technologies. If we do get full disclosure, now the dam breaks. Now we're in a totally new reality, which very well could be the golden age that was promised to us in so many different ancient teachings and traditions. I do believe that in our lifetimes, we will see the full disclosure of these so-called "forbidden technologies." We will become a truly galactic civilization. And we will do this with the cooperation of people in the military, people in the intelligence community, people who were working for the cabal, and have decided to break away from all that, become insiders, and be the change that we want to see in the world. This film is an embodiment of that global movement. This film is the red pill that wakes you up to what's really going on in the world. They do not have the staff to fight us. The cabal is losing. We are on the winning side of history, we are moving forward step-by-step, and at some point, this is all going to break open. So, when we raise consciousness, when we come together as a group, when we create this initiative, when we define what we want, by having that be our state of mind, we are literally transforming this planet into the golden oasis that it was always supposed to be. And the breathtaking future that we have been hearing about from so many ancient traditions, whether you wanna call it ascension, the golden age, whatever it is, I do believe it's possible, and it is up to us to co-create this amazing reality.

ANNOUNCER>>Power in defense of freedom is greater than power on behalf of tyranny and oppression. Because power, real power comes from our convictions which produce uncompromising action, every daring attempt to make a great change in existing conditions, every lofty vision of new possibilities for the human race has been labeled utopian. Like it or not, everything is changing. The result will be the most wonderful experience in the history of humanity or the most horrible enslavement that you can imagine. We must draw our strength from the very despair in which we have been forced to live. We were born with potential. We were born with goodness and trust. We were born with ideals and dreams. We were born with greatness. We are the universe in ecstatic motion, and it does not require many words to speak the truth. The ultimate end of all revolutionary social change is to establish the sanctity of human life, the right of every human on the planet to liberty and wellbeing. Do not allow yourself to get lost in the fear of change. Remember, the wound is the place where the light enters you. We are here to laugh at the odds, and live are lives so well that death will tremble to take us.

David Wilcock: Behind Majestic [Parts 1 - 6] about 50 minutes total

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=tOAU08HVV5Q&list=PL-AcVvFbe-NA2QXBtqgXo9zmWCPkLBf9> [6 part playlist bio of the 25-year personal journey of David Wilcock in cultivating SSP insiders and whistleblowers--just his commentary]

I started to have very strange dreams about UFOs all the way back when I was two years old. And not only was I having dreams of large cigar shaped craft in my backyard, hovering maybe 20, 30 feet over the yard, I also was meeting with beings in my dreams who seemed to have a very peculiar fatherly quality. After I saw Star Wars 1977, the main being I was talking to actually became Obi-Wan Kenobi. And what's interesting about that is that Obi-Wan Kenobi says, if you strike me down, I will become more powerful than you can imagine. And it's after that that he turns into a light being. So I think that message was telling me that these light beings are real. That's why I was seeing this being in that form. I then found a book called Strange Stories, Amazing Facts. My grandmother gave it to me when I was five, and I was very fascinated by pictures in the back of flying saucers. And the first edition of that book came out in 1978. And so I couldn't even read back then, but I was very intrigued by what I was looking at. And I really did have a huge passion for all these paranormal subjects my whole life. Where my awakening really took off was once I had gotten into college and I was in my sophomore year, that a close friend of mine showed up one day and he was white as a piece of paper. He literally was in a traumatized state of consciousness.

And he proceeded to tell me that his college physics professor was the head of the department and that this man had worked for NASA through the 1970s at the higher echelons, and that everybody in the higher echelons of NASA was well aware that extraterrestrials were real, that they had come here, they had landed on Earth, that we had recovered technology from their ships, and that much of our modern advancements were a direct result of this cosmic inheritance. So I was getting so much detail, so much specific information in the year 1993, before there was anything more than some very skeptical, non-conclusive documentaries on television that I became convinced there was something very tangible to look at here. Specifically, he said that fiber optic cables came from UFOs, LED lights, Kevlar bulletproof vest material, Teflon, which is in so many things. Engines are all coated with Teflon on the inside. It's a non-stick material that works great for oil as well when you're in an engine. And then we get into computer chips, the whole integrated circuit revolution. Apparently prior to Roswell, we only had vacuum tubes. And then even the first solid state transistors were one of the original products that came out of this divine endowment, whatever you want to call it.

So this information also included how the ship got up to light speed. He said that the ship was a disk and it would shoot out. It had an emitter that could go in any direction around the circumference and it would shoot out a particle going three fourths of the speed of light. And then another particle would go out at the speed of light and bounce off of the first one, kick it and then kick back and hit the edge of the ship. And if you do that trillions of times per second or however many there are, it will actually accelerate the ship to near light speed. And this really was cool because I had already studied this little science geek thing called a radiometer, which is a glass ball that has these four little fins inside of it on a needle that spin around. And they're black on one side and white on the other. And when you read up on the thing, what you find out is that the black actually attracts electrons inside as photons, the bouncing of the electrons against the black actually causes it to spin. So I knew that it was possible to create movement through just particle interaction. Then we also heard that there were three main types of beings that had been found in these craft, and that's all I had back then. There was a small type that was like the gray. So they were aware of grays all the way back in the 1970s. And of course, you see them in Close Encounters, which was in the 1970s. Then they had a smaller gray where he said that the head was a helmet and you could remove the helmet and that underneath was a monstrosity.

So when you think about monstrosity, that pretty much makes you think Reptilian. So all the way back then, I was wondering if there was some sort of really frightening looking humanoid. And then the odd question being to why would they be dressing up to look like greys when they're really not? And that made me think about abductions and the possibility that there was some reason to why they would want whoever's doing this, would want everything to look like it's the same type of being. Then the thing that I found probably the most fascinating of all was that he said that the tallest of the beings in these ships that had crashed here that are clearly not from Earth, looked just like us. They looked human. They might have subtle changes. They might have more of a diamond shaped pupil instead of a round one. Their irises might be purple. They might have ridges on the roof of their mouth similar to a cat. The teeth might be different. They might have more teeth or less teeth. But for the most part, if you give them dentures and you give them makeup and maybe contact lenses, they could totally walk around here. You'd never know that they were any different. Now, I had that information in 1993. That's a long time ago. I had to really try to think, okay, why would there be people that look like us that are not from Earth? Does that mean, for example, that we did not start on Earth, that perhaps we were colonized from other places and some of those places still exist, but maybe certain groups broke away, came here, and maybe they had a problem.

Maybe like the flood of Atlantis, something like that caused them to lose their civilization. They got trapped here. That's a possibility of how we could be. Later on, I explored the idea that the human form is actually a universal template, that it's everywhere in the universe, or at least everywhere in our galaxy. So, needless to say, getting to NASA's physics professor through my friend telling me directly that UFOs are real, extraterrestrials are real, the whole thing is being covered up and they're laughing at us and that all of our technology, all the modern technology that we love, computer chips, fiber optics, LEDs, that it's all a celestial endowment.

That ignited a passion for me that led to reading over 300 books over the next three years. So I read about 100 books a year, or roughly two books a week. And that was all the stuff you'd find in the 000 section of the library, which is philosophy. So I read about Bigfoot, I read about Stonehenge, I read about the pyramids, I read about ghosts, I read about Spring Hill Jack, this weird bouncing creature that they saw in Europe. So many things.

And I just devoured everything on the paranormal. The Bermuda Triangle. All the stuff about Mesoamerican pyramids, all kinds of books, everything I could read about UFOs, documented UFO sightings, what were people seeing, mass sightings. I read about Fatima, where you have ultimately 90,000 people seeing this disc shaped object, zipping back and forth in the sky, giving off enough rainbow colored light that the whole sky was lit up with rainbow light. And then somehow, at the end of this experience, everybody's clothes were dry, although it had been raining the whole time and they were soaked to the skin.

So after that three year odyssey of really doing so much research. I was absolutely convinced that something was going on. And then along comes this book, The day after Roswell giving the testimony of Colonel Philip Corso. And Colonel Philip Corso, who is no longer with us, reported on exactly the same stuff that I'd heard from the NASA guy. He was saying that he was involved in a so-called foreign technology division where they were taking wreckage from this craft and putting it out to various corporations that deal with manufacturing. And they're just told, oh, this is foreign technology, as if it came from France or Russia or something like this. They didn't know where it came from.

But one of the things that Corso reported was that they had these white colored wafers about the size of a quarter, and they knew that it had to do something important, but they didn't really know why or what. And it was only when they looked at it under a microscope that they saw all these grooves and all these patterns. And that was a big, big computer chip. These craft also used fiber optic cables, and so they didn't know what that was. So they would take out the fiber optic cables and hand that to somebody else. And so what happened was that within a relatively short time, we were able to start developing much more advanced technology thanks to this.

Another major event for me was going to my first UFO conference, which was in Connecticut. And at this conference, I was seated around a table where there were people talking about UFOs. And there was one guy who really needed to stop talking. It was driving me crazy. He had had a sighting and he wanted to just dominate the whole conversation. But next to me was a man who was wearing a very traditional and kind of nerdy looking brown suit like this, kind of a dark brown color. He was bald on the top. He had gray hair going down the sides. He had kind of the horn rimmed glasses on that bounced on his nose. And this man told me right up front that he worked for Lockheed Martin, that he'd worked for Boeing, all these different defense contractors. And this, by the way, we're now talking 1996 is when this happened. I'm sitting with this guy at this UFO conference, and I had told him about what I'd heard from the college professor, and he was really impressed.

He said, "Wow, your college professor told you a lot, but I'm going to tell you right now, there's much, much more. And if you want to come and meet with me privately, I will tell you a lot more." So then he walks off and he wanted me to go over by the salad bar or something. After he left, I had other people who were UFO enthusiasts at the table and I told them what happened and they said, Absolutely, do not go with this man, because what they're doing is they're looking for psychics. And you already told them you're a musician, that you've played jazz. And so they found that people who can play music well are much more apt to be able to do this psychic stuff. They will use you up as a psychic. You'll be barred for life from ever talking about what you learned. And then most people can only handle these jobs for two or three years and then they die. And if you try to get out, they'll kill you. So I actually held off and I didn't meet with the guy, which was really tough for me. And, in the meantime. I go out on the Internet eventually by 1999, I've got my own website and I start writing about this stuff and it attracted a lot of interesting attention.

So in 2001, I went to the Disclosure Project event. This was a big, big deal because you have Dr. Steven Greer, who's put together a team of 39 people who have never come forward, most of them, before. And they are saying that they witnessed UFOs, that they have them on.... There was one guy who had radar tracings, visible sight from pilots, ground based observation and landing traces on the ground where these craft actually leave footprints in the in the dirt.

For me, I think the most amazing guy who I met at this event Disclosure Project was Sergeant Clifford Stone. I sought him out right away, went up to him because he was claiming that he had actually gone up to craft, that had crashed, in this crash retrieval unit. And he was the guy who had to interact with the beings when they first were still alive and were dying. And apparently what happens is that the being is giving you a telepathic connection to itself where you feel everything, that the being feels, you feel its pain. So if it has a severed leg, it's literally no different than the exact pain of your leg being severed, that you're dying, the fear of your death, all this kind of stuff. And as he's telling me this, you can see tears welling up in his eyes.

And in fact, unfortunately, what people don't see online is the next one that happened on May 10th. That's the one I was at. Everybody sees the May 9th one. That's the one in the National Press Club. There was another one on May 10th in a private room, and that was the closed executive summary briefing for VIPs and members of Congress. I sat literally right behind Helen Thomas in her wheelchair. I was in the second row right up front, because that's what I like to do, is be in the front. And so everybody did their spiel that they had done the day before, but a lot of them went into way more detail. And unfortunately and I've talked to Greer about this, the footage is lost. We there was somebody filming it. I remember seeing a guy there with a camera. We have no idea where it went. And it's such a shame because when Sergeant Clifford Stone went up there and he started talking about his intuitive interface with these beings, he literally lost it. He started crying. He had to walk off into the corner and he got this massive standing ovation.

Now, bear in mind, this is 2001, pre-911, and you have actual congressmen in the audience and their aides. So these congressmen were up on their feet shouting, cheering, clapping for a long time to get him to compose himself and get back on the stage. It was an incredible moment, and I so wish that we had video of that, but we don't. After this momentum got started, approximately 2 billion people had heard about this in one form or another on Earth.

Just a few months later, we have 911. And that really sort of changed the emphasis. And this opportunity that we had for disclosure got closed down. So I didn't really have any other insider contact of significance after those first 39 people until the winter of 2003. And this is where I end up getting stranded in Albany, New York, on the way to see my parents down in the Scotia, Schenectady area at the time. There was a big snowstorm and there was no way you're getting out of Albany. So I had to winter over for the night there. And if you've ever got stuck at Albany Airport, then, you know, the only thing that's open at night is Denny's. So I go to this Denny's and I happened to have brought along with me this book called The Montauk Project.

And it was strange because before I left, the book had literally fallen off the shelf in a funny way. I'm not sure if it got bumped or what happened, but it had ended up on the ground and I'm seeing it face up looking at me. And I thought this book was nonsense because what it was describing was people in this military base on Montauk Point, Long Island, who had taken a seat out of a UFO and had apparently figured out how to give it the right amount of power, what it would require for its power consumption.

And then when you put somebody into the seat, the thoughts that they think, if they can meditate well enough, those thoughts will actually manifest as physical objects in the room. So you can literally materialize whatever you want by sitting in the chair.

What also was really cool about the seat was that it would create a portal if you thought about a particular place and they started sending homeless people through the portal that they just gathered up from the streets of Long Island and most of them died. But they did find that there were ways to get people out through the portal and bring them back. And before too long, they also figured out that these portals were not just taking you from place to place in space. They actually were time portals as well.

Now, when I'm reading all this in this book, it seems very fantastical. It seems dubious at best. I didn't think the book was particularly well written. I was very skeptical about it. So there I am sitting in the Denny's. I've got the Montauk Project book and I'm holding it up and this guy walks by and he literally looks like he's going to ride a Harley Davidson. Not at all like somebody you think would have been in the military. He's got the big salt and pepper beard. He's got the hair, he's got the denim jacket and he's got the denim pants and he's got cowboy boots and he's a big, heavy guy. And so it's a little intimidating just to have this kind of a Harley rider walk up to you at all in a restaurant. It's nighttime. I'm by myself.

"What's going on? So what do you think of that Montauk stuff?" And I said, "Oh, man, you know, this book is bullshit." And he said, "Well, I used to work for Preston Nichols." Preston Nichols is the author of the book, the guy that ran the Montauk Project. And I actually I mean, despite the fact that he was a Harley rider or looked like he was, you know, he had some metal studs on his clothing, things like this. I just kind of heckled him. And I said, "Oh, come on, man. You know, you can't expect me to believe that you worked for Preston Nichols and you were involved in all the stuff that was in this book." He said, "Well, if you want to listen to me, I will tell you what I know and you decide if it's true." So. I said, "Okay, well, you know, sit down. Let's talk about this."

So. I ended up being in that restaurant for hours and I had taken placemats from the other tables and flipped them over because there's white on the back. And I'm writing all this stuff down and he's drawing pictures. It was amazing. And I proceeded to end up having years of contact with this guy. And he wanted to go by the name Daniel. And he told me an incredible amount of stuff. He was a genius kid who in the 1970s had built a computer with an operating system which was not at all normal. And because of that, being in a science fair, they have these government people who go to recruit. Right. So they find this kid at the science fair and they say, well, how would you like to have a job for the government? How would you like to work in some very, very interesting stuff that nobody else gets to know about? That's how he got brought in. So what he told me was that the company he worked for was called Brookhaven, Brookhaven National Labs, and that this was this defense contractor actually owned this derelict, supposedly derelict military base at Montauk Point, Long Island.

He claims that he was involved in engineering the time portal technology that was being used with this seat. And specifically there were all these various wavelengths that came out of the chair. And he said that the wavelengths would represent the consciousness of the person inside the chair. What they were trying to get him to do for his job was to look at these wavelengths and figure out how to build a digital or analog computer that could generate those waves because they wanted to be able to run this without a human being. They couldn't get the time portal technology to work unless somebody who was a trained person was in the chair.

And he said that he couldn't use digital because ultimately digital goes in stair steps like this, but that the. The final conclusion was that with an analog computer, you can get the same nice waves that they got and it seems like they got pretty close. The whole project he was involved in it from about February 1981 to August 1983. And so in the Montauk story, what we hear about is that this strange monstrosity was generated and it trashes the base. He didn't go to work that day. And so then they called him and told him, don't come back. The job has been canceled. So he was very, very fortunate not to be there on the day that everything got destroyed and that they didn't mind wipe him either. So he was left with his memories and he had stayed in contact with a group of insiders that he had met on the job. And I got a lot of information from him, not only from his own personal experience, but from the other insiders that he knew.

So at this time, all the way back in the main period where I got the information from him was 2003 through 2005. He told me that what we see in the Stargate SG1 television series and the movie is totally accurate that that was based on truth. So apparently our government had located in Egypt, some kind of ring shaped object buried in the sand that actually will allow people to go through it and travel from planet to planet. And he talked to me about how every planet has its own Stargate address. And for many, many years, I didn't give out the Stargate address because I wanted to try to sort out the wheat from the chaff. But what he told me was that it was a long number and each one of the numbers has to do with a division of some part of our universe. So the first three numbers are 753 of our address. Then the next numbers are 84, 70, 24. Now you're getting into quadrants that are divided up into units of 100. So we're 847024. Then the final digits are 606. And so Earth is 606. Mars is 605. And literally, if you go up to this gate, you can dial in any numerical code you want and it will take you to that planet. And what he explained was he had been told that elder extraterrestrials, very ancient ETs, had designed this and upheld it. And when a planet no longer had human life on it, they would recycle the number and use it for another planet. Another interesting thing that he told me was that there is a planet at the gate address of 001. And he said that that planet was orbiting a pulsar, a very strange type of star that pulsates.

And as a result, they were able to live there a really long time. And he said those people were called the Aesir or Asgard, and that those are the people who were visiting the Vikings and gave rise to the whole legend of Valhalla, that kind of stuff. That Valhalla was actually going through the Stargate and going back to their planet with the gate address of 001. So bear in mind that between 2003 and 2005, I had extensive contact with this man. And I became utterly convinced that there are traversable wormholes, that we can travel faster than light, that we do have interactions with various extraterrestrial species. He did talk about that there were certain extraterrestrial groups that showed up on the base. Later on, he went through hypnotic regression with Dr. Leo Sprinkle, and under hypnosis he started to remember a lot more and that included that he was working with reptilian beings and that they were actually teaching them at that base how to get the chair working, how to get the right power supply, training the psychics on how to tune properly for the chair. It was a very intense, complicated story. And you have to understand that for this roughly two and a half year period, I was constantly trying to get him caught in something. I was constantly cross-examining. I would ask funny questions. I would try to see if he could contradict himself. And no matter how much I tried, his testimony was remarkably consistent. It just stayed the same.

I ended up moving to California in the beginning of 2006 and that was to work on my Hollywood movie project Convergence. And after I got there I noticed that within a relatively short time there was this group on the internet that started to make waves called Project Camelot. And this was in the dawn of the YouTube era. So they were starting to get out there and you're starting to get pretty interesting. And at the same time I was working with Richard C. Hoagland who was the guy who had talked about the idea of a face-like Mesa on Mars that actually has eyes on both sides has a headress around the top. It is really amazing if you've ever seen it. It's just does not at all look like a natural formation. And just to the left of that face is what looks like a city of Egyptian style pyramids. And then just to the south of that face is a very blatant, five-sided pentagonal pyramid. But it's not a pure pentagon, it's a pentagon in the shape of the Vitruvian Man, a human being with his arms and legs out, clearly again suggesting humans were on Mars, humans built these ruins that are now completely trashed and NASA is not willing to let us know about this. And by that point we'd already heard from other insiders that Dr. Steven Greer had gotten, in fact, there was a guy named AH in his book who I later was able to meet, who had said that he had heard from NASA that they had much more elaborate information about the face and pyramids on Mars. They knew it was real. They knew it was an ancient civilization. That is a game changer. To find out that our civilization on earth is not the first and that there may have been other civilizations that were more advanced than we were that died out and we might in fact actually be at least partly descended from people that had lived on Mars before and that planet was no longer viable and they moved next door. So at this point I go to Richard C Hoagland's conference in Joshua Tree California, the same place that contact the desert for the first five years. It's a beautiful campus. It's in the desert and I had given a talk where I was describing my scientific research into DNA. At the end of the talk this man comes up to me follows me out throws his arm around me and says you're about 85% correct. And I'm like "Well what's the other 15%." He said "Well take me out to dinner and I'll tell you.

It turns out that this guy who we call Bruce, again not his real name, was Richard C Hoagland top insider who had been feeding him lots and lots of Intel for years, had been giving him leads not only about the face and pyramids on Mars, but glass shattered domes that were found on the moon, all kinds of weird structures on the moon. Bruce had told him where to look what photo frames to ask NASA for, all kinds of really cool stuff.

And I sat down with Bruce. We went to dinner and he told me that he had worked for the same time defense contractors. He'd worked at S4 is what he called it other people call it area 51. One of the weird things that Bruce told me was that there was a dog on the base and they really loved this dog and when the dog died they had the ability to clone the dog. And that each new cloned version remembered all the tricks and all the behavioral eccentricities that the dog before had. And that was one of the things he wanted to tell me about DNA science, that he had understood. He also told me that he was affiliated with the guy who was the top man at NORAD watching the radars and that they had created a screening system to screen out all of these craft that were not supposed to see. So this guy was the air traffic controller at NORAD who saw the real radar that showed all kinds of stuff that the traditional radar that would get ignored or that you'd get at the airport, you'll never actually see them. They are built to have those shields, to have that shielded out so that it's not visible.

And there was so much stuff he was telling me over the years, as time went by, in his understanding, we had been in craft that had traveled throughout our solar system. But he was told that we couldn't leave the solar system, and he was told that we hadn't really developed anything out in space that much. We just kind of gone around and looked at it, but we hadn't really landed and settled anywhere. So I trusted him and I believe that was true. Okay, well, yeah, we have some cool stuff. And so one of the really weird things was Comet SHOEMAKER-LEVY nine is this chain of like nine major fragments that strike Jupiter in 1993. And at the exact time that they struck Jupiter, it was right down to the minute, practically, of the 25 year anniversary of the Apollo moon landings.

And so that would suggest that somebody was out there with a craft and had precisely steered this comet chain to hit that planet, hoping, I guess, that it was going to blow up, that the hydrogen would ignite. Because that's what you see at the end of Arthur Clarke's novel, 2010, which is also the movie where Jupiter blows up and then it becomes a new solar system, and we can now inhabit these moons that were around Jupiter. So now I'm starting to think, Well, yeah, that makes sense. Somebody could have had a spaceship and somebody could have actually moved that comet into position. And of course, all along I'd been thinking if Roswell is real and we had interplanetary, capable craft as early as 1947, and we'd started to really be able to engineer them by the 1950s, then absolutely we would have the ability to fly around, to take trips through space, through the solar system, all this interesting stuff. So that really opened me up. He never wanted to come forward, but he had a lot of information.

One of the other things he told me was that the government, if you want to call it that, wants to control the cocaine business. And he described that there were very, very precise chemical markers that were put in the cocaine that told them where it had been manufactured, the date of its manufacture, how long it had been since it had been moved from place to place. That so you're actually the people who use cocaine are snorting a cocktail of chemicals that include these markers that are like basically an encyclopedia of the history of where it's been and what it's done. He didn't tell me how the chemicals were introduced. Probably they get zapped with some kind of energy beam as they go from point to point in their distribution system. But what he said was that by adding these chemical markers to the cocaine and he was involved with this with Ronald Reagan and the whole Iran-Contra scandal, he was working with the administration during that time. He said that what this allowed them to do is they would periodically get cocaine and test it. And any cocaine that didn't have the right code, then they would hunt them down and those people would be put out of business. So this was how they were able to control the cocaine business and make sure that all of the money from the sale and traffic of illicit drugs was going right back into these programs having to do with UFOs. So here's the guy who's literally working at Area 51 and making sure that the cocaine business works at the same time, because that's where the money was coming from. And then I also heard from other insiders that the heroin business, same thing. Why was it after 911 that the first thing America does is invade Iraq and Afghanistan, while Iraq is oil money and Afghanistan is heroin money.

And so this stuff starts to get really weird because you have insiders who have been working on these classified UFO related projects, and at the same time, they're also deeply involved in illicit businesses that generate large amounts of money.

So I then sought out Project Camelot because Project Camelot was the first group that was taking interviews with insiders and putting them on YouTube. Nobody else had done it before then. And they started, I think, all the way back in 2007, right when YouTube was getting going. So there was one guy that Camelot had who would not go on camera, and his name was Henry Deacon. That's what he wanted to call himself. And that's the character from Lost in Space. So I said to Project Camelot. Let me make you a deal. I will trade you everything that I have from my insider, Daniel, who's not going to come forward if you get me in touch with Henry Deacon, let me talk to the man. Let me get him on the phone and start asking them questions. And they were very happy to oblige. I ended up talking to Henry Deacon on Skype and I was using a pseudonym and so was he. And this turned into a friendship that produced, I would say probably 85 hours of conversation, which I've recorded. And Henry Deacon, you got to remember now, we're still talking. This is 2007, 2008. Those two years is where I really had the most interaction with him.

And he is telling me stuff that goes even deeper down the rabbit hole than anybody else that I had met before. Henry Deacon claimed that he would go to work at a military base, which I'm not going to name. He's asked me not to. It's in the U.K., it's in Britain, and if I named it, you probably would know what it was, or you could look it up. It's one of the big ones. And what he would do is he would drive in. You have to go through security checkpoints. You have armed guards with machine guns and you park in the parking lot. You walk into a building. You go down an elevator. There's all these checkpoints all along the way. And then what he said was that there was this thing he called the corridor. At the beginning of the corridor. You have a desk and there are military people there and they have to interview you and you have to have a normal conversation with them. And what he explained was that they were worried that even if you look like the right guy, even if you have the right fingerprints and your voice sounds correct and everything seems okay, you look the same. It may not really be you. Now, whether that's extraterrestrials or whether that's clones, he never really got specific on that. But you have to have a conversation and you have to prove that you are yourself by saying things that are unique, individual and personal, things that they know, talking about your life, talking about what you've been through, and it's only once you've done that and proven that you are really you, that they let you go down this corridor.

Now, what he said about the corridor was that it was actually like a round tube, a cylindrical room. It had, I believe, white polished walls, glossy walls with little ribs along the way. And it was lit in a kind of strange way. You'd walk down to the end of this corridor, and then there was an elevator there. And it wasn't really that different than a regular elevator, except that the doors would open and close very slowly, and it was a little bit larger than a regular elevator would be. Now, as far as everybody else on that military base was concerned, this elevator was just used for freight because you would go in, it would open slowly and it would only go up by one floor. But off to the side, there's a staircase and you can go up the staircase, so there's no need to use the elevator. So this was example of them hiding it out in the open. When Henry Deacon would go in there, however, he had a particular badge that this elevator would scan and the badge would tell the elevator where he needed to go.

And then he had an ordinary key on an ordinary key ring. And you would put the key into a lock that was on the elevator on the inside. There's a panel with just a lock in it. So the only other thing you have is the up and the down button, and that's it. So you got the up and down button for one floor and then you got this keyhole. So he would stick his key into the keyhole, he would twist it, the doors would close very slowly. And then he said that it was, in some cases, almost imperceptible, but you'd have this feeling sort of like you got a static electric shock, your whole body just like that, very, very subtle. The doors open and now he's on Mars.

And when he would come out of the doors, he would walk through an atrium area and there would be this bullet train type of thing. And this bullet train would travel through tubes that were similar to what the corridor looked like. Some of these tubes were underground, but in other cases the tube was actually visible with glass or some material like glass, and you would be zipping at a very high speed past Martian terrain. And he said it looked a lot like Sedona or the Grand Canyon. A lot of the rocks were red. He said it was gorgeous. It was it was incredibly beautiful. So he would take this bullet train ride and he would end up going to this large base that was on Mars. Now, apparently, NASA is going to scrub images of this base out of there, photographs that they take of Mars. Apparently this area could be above the ground. And also some of it is definitely underground. And it appears also that there is some sort of cloaking device where they can project a hologram, so it looks like it's just regular earth terrain or Mars terrain if you're flying overhead for whatever reason.

Now, this is where the story got really bizarre, because what he said was that he was working at this base that had 200,000 personnel. Well, what do you mean by personnel? Because he kind of had a very leading way of saying it. He said only 10,000 of the personnel were born on earth. Now I'm hearing this stuff again, 2007, fully seven or eight years before Corey Goode showed up and talked about having worked on Mars. Now, there's so much stuff that he told me and a lot of it I still haven't really used because it's so complicated. But let's get into some of the details now. His job was working on repairing certain types of advanced equipment that were being used on this base. And it was a fairly common type of equipment, I guess.

One of the things that was really controversial was that at one point he told Kerry that he was working for a program called Solar Warden, which ends up being the same program that Cory Good described later on. But then he was so paranoid about that information getting out that he denied saying it. And Kerry Cassidy was very upset about that because he clearly had at the time, nobody else had mentioned Solar Warden before. So this was just another detail. Apparently the UFO hacker, Gary McKinnon, had mentioned it because he had seen it in some of the documents he saw in Nassau when he hacked the NASA computers. But other than that, I didn't know anything about Solar Warden at all. So Henry Deacon described going in and having these meetings with these various types of humanoids that were working on the base.

One of the things he said was that some of these humanoids require different gravitational pulls than we would. And so they had devised a way on these bases to have the floor generate its own gravitational field corresponding to the needs of the being. So certain areas of the base were delegated for certain beings. And you might walk into those areas and suddenly feel a lot heavier. And it's like hard to walk and it's hard to move your arms and you want to slouch. Or in other areas, you might walk in and you feel really light and bouncy. And it's there's like a spring in your step. And this was the artificial gravity that was generated.

Now he had not seen reptilian beings like the Draco. This idea of a humanoid looking dragon or snake type of being with a face that's kind of a reptile face, but arms and legs like ours. However, there was a very interesting thing that he did say, and that was that these. People that would have meetings, had a certain type of being that would come in with very elaborate battle armor. And they did essentially have more or less a reptilian type of appearance to their skin, but they always wore masks. You couldn't actually see their faces. And he also described that everybody had to act deferentially to these beings. You would have to hold your head down like this. You couldn't even look up. You were not allowed to look at the mask. And everybody was afraid of these beings. All the other ETs were afraid of these beings. They appeared to have some kind of controlling role on this Mars facility. They were they had a very nasty kind of evil feeling and they had a nasty smell. And so this became something where, again, it was weird and interesting that he didn't actually say they were reptilians, but they fit the description. And maybe the masks were just so that people weren't traumatized by looking at them. I don't know.

Now. He talked to me about so many interesting things, and one of them was and I'm not going to say where, but there are certain places in America in which small towns have actually had human extraterrestrials move in and live there. And there are doctors that work in these small towns who will know how to operate on these people because their physiology is not the same. So, for example, you might have a dentist, but you can't just drill into their teeth the way you would in ours. The enamel might be harder, the roots might be in a different location, the teeth might be wider, there might be fewer teeth in their mouth, and they'll typically wear a snap on plate that makes it look more real. Some of these people had really pale skin and they would need to put makeup on in order to go out in the open. And this was also the first time that I had heard that there was a pilot program where the farmer's market in Los Angeles, California, actually has these people show up.

Now, he told me that this particular type of being you really do not want them to know that you spotted them. He said that they are muscular. They look more or less human, but they look like albinos. But another weird feature of this particular type of human is that if they stick out their tongue, it could actually go down and touch the bottom of their chin. So they have longer tongues than we do. But these beings, if they figure out that you know who they are, they will track you psychically and they can actually project into our reality and grab people. So it's not a good idea. It's not something you ever want to do to tip off that these people know who you are. Now, years later, we had the former Canadian defense minister Paul Hellyer come forward and basically say exactly the same thing, that there were certain cases where these whitish looking people were being brought out into public places as part of this acclimation program.

So Henry Deacon had also told me that there had been many other civilizations on Earth before, the ones that we were familiar with, that there were plenty of ruins on Earth, that there were ruined extraterrestrial craft and cities underneath the surface. There was lots of stuff underground. And of course, he's talking about working on Mars and that we had spaceships that could travel through our solar system. He hadn't really traveled outside the solar system, per se.

So then the story got even more interesting when I was having a dinner with people from Project Camelot at one of the Project Camelot conferences. And while I was there, I met a man who we're calling Jacob. And Jacob had worked for this same program that Henry Deacon had worked for. And at one point I actually had Jacob and Henry Deacon in my house at the same time. And I wish I could have overheard what they were saying because it was all private. Jacob was positioned on a much, much higher level in the inside world than Henry Deacon had been or for that matter, that Corey Goode has been. Corey Goode by comparison to Jacob was really more like a grunt or a shift worker, whereas Jacob was in a senior top level management position for the Secret Space Program. Now this is going to get really contentious really quickly. Everything I've been telling you up until now is going to get even more outrageous. But you have to bear with me. Jacob said that the main family that was running the Secret Space Program on Earth was the Rothschild family, and he was directly working for them. He didn't like what they were doing. He didn't like their plans about mass genocide and so he broke the rules quite a bit and told me a lot of things that they did not want him to say. After I met him at this dinner, and I didn't really believe what he had to say. I kind of laughed at him when he was telling me some things. I gave him a chance again to come to my house and he brought his laptop with him. So right off the bat, some really strange stuff starts to happen.

First of all, he talked about a separate Internet that they have, and this Internet has small bursts of signal that piggyback on the signal of the rest of the Internet. So like, let's say if you just want to look at it on a line, like most of the Internet, signal is here, and then there's these little bitty packets in between that are shorter, but they're a lot denser. And none of our conventional routers or equipment would ever detect what those packets of information carry on them. But there is a whole separate system, a separate Internet that runs on the backbone of the Internet that you can log into that has all this weird classified stuff in it. And it's basically a database. It's a repository of all this highly classified information. So we're literally talking about a guy who worked for the Rothschilds. He described at one point having a meal where they had this stack of plates and the whitest plates on the bottom, and it gets narrower, narrower and narrower, and you just eat your way down through the plates. And he said that it was the best food you've ever tasted in your whole life. He also described that when these people are actually in their secret meetings, there are certain occult clothing and jewelry that they wear that you would never normally see. And so he thought of them as gays and because of his regional dialect, he called them poofs.

And so they would have all these rings on their fingers and the rings might have a giant ruby or a giant sapphire, giant emerald or just be all gold. And so they would sit at the table like this and they would be negotiating massive deals. We're talking in sometimes billions of dollars and an entire transaction that could be worth $5 Billion could literally be done by this guy moving his pinky finger with the ring on it. And then there's somebody there that writes it all down. They don't even talk like somebody will be describing the deal, but everybody's got their hands out like this and one guy will move his finger and that means he's buying the deal. And this way they're just moving through all this stuff very quickly.

Now, Jacob described to me that his first experience in a military base that was deep underground, he was in the elevator and he could jump up. And when he jumped up, he actually started hovering. Because the elevator is moving down so fast that it nullifies gravity. And he said that was a very strange experience. Now, in order to demonstrate his credibility, he pops, open his laptop and he starts showing me some really strange stuff. One of the things he showed me was an enormous file, literally enormous of bank accounts that were held by people like the Rothschilds. And I'm actually able to see names and you'd have a first name and Rothschild, and then I'm seeing the account number or the account name, and then I'm seeing the passwords.

Now, I'm sure they've changed it since then because I've leaked this before, but one of the things that I found the most astonishing was that, first of all, these accounts had billions of dollars in them. I mean, they were massive, massive amounts of money. And I'm telling you, he's hitting tab and he's just tabbing through page after page after page. And I can see and read really fast, but it's just Rothschild, Rothschild, all these other things and various other names of so-called Illuminati people as well.

One of the probably most surprising things to me other than the dollar values of the accounts because they were enormous, was that almost all of these accounts had the same password. And the password was the word "equity" in lowercase letters, followed by a number that was between one and three digits. So you might have equity59 for equity13, equity707. And I'm thinking, well, this is not secure at all, but the whole system in which these transactions are processed is on this dark Internet, this other Internet that is not what we call the dark web, but it's actually a secondary Internet that runs on a completely different packet system. But his smartphone was on it and his laptop could get into it and you could access it from a conventional modem.

With the final trumpet, the "resurrection and rapture" will occur. All of those deemed worthy by God will be allowed into His kingdom, while those who are deemed unworthy will be subjected to "seven wraths of God".

NARRATOR: Your contact with this information is no accident. Your search for truth and deeper meaning has led you here. But remember, the truth is not outside you. It comes from deep within you. There is more to this reality than you are being told. And we're all secretly asking ourselves the same questions:

Who are we? Why are we here? And, what is our destiny?

[EERIE MUSIC PLAYING]

DAVID WILCOCK: From the earliest stage I can remember, I was having dreams of flying cylinders in my backyard, at the house I grew up in. And these cylinders did not have wings, and they would flutter in the air. Interestingly enough, I also had many meetings with an old man who seemed to be connected to these flying cylinders. The old man had grey hair and a grey beard. He had a robe. He wore sandals. This man had such a connection to me, that I actually would cry when I woke up from these dreams. In these dreams, he was telling me that a stupendous event was going to happen in humanity's future within my lifetime. That it would lead to some sort of evolutionary leap for us, in what it means to be human. And he also told me that I would have a very key role to play in this awakening.

He also said that I would be needing to learn as much about science as possible.

And also, he gave me a keen interest in UFOs and ancient civilizations. I was taught to spend a lot of time looking into the stone monuments around the world. He told me that was very important. He also wanted me to understand what these craft were that this phenomena was emanating from.

A very powerful event happened when I was five years old, where I woke up in the middle of the night, and I was floating over my own body. My body was alive. I was floating over myself in bed, and I could see myself sleeping. But interestingly enough, my astral form or ghost body, as I thought of it at the time, had the same pajamas on that I was wearing in the bed. So, I'm literally looking down at myself, seeing myself sleep, and

I then floated down the hallway, feet first. I felt as if there were voices talking, I felt a very strong energetic presence. And then I stopped at the stairwell, that I would normally be walking downstairs through. At that point, on its own, my body turned 90 degrees and then tilted up on a diagonal angle, and I started to drift down the stairs. As I surged with fear, thinking, "Oh, my God, I'm dying," the experience suddenly terminated, and I was not able to go any farther. However, I've come to believe that most likely, I did have more experience after that moment in the stairwell. But that I was spliced back in to my body without the memory being retained consciously.

As I grew older, this out-of-body experience compelled me to try to get another chance. So, for two years after this happened, every night, I prayed to get another chance to fly out of my body and meet the old man "in person," instead of in a dream. After two years, I broke down and told my mother what happened, and she was progressive enough to tell me that what had happened to me was one of a series of things called Extrasensory Perception or ESP. So, literally, I'm a 7-year-old kid, and I went underneath stairwell in the basement of my house, and there was a whole row of paperback books, one of which said, "ESP" in big capital letters. The title was, How to Make ESP Work for You by Harold Sherman. I started reading the book, I was in second grade, most kids were reading Clifford the Big Red Dog. I did not understand many of the words, so I had to use context. But I was able to get through the book.

For me, reading people's minds, knowing what they were thinking, that was commonplace. I was very aware of what people were going to say before it came out of their mouth. I was very attentive to the eyes, the body language, the ambience and the nuance of a particular environment I was in. All of these things in my early childhood seemed to be anomalous until you start talking to certain insiders, at which point you realize, this all fits in with a greater mosaic.

And it suggests that, like many others on Earth, I'm not suggesting that I'm unique here, there was extensive extraterrestrial contact that still to this day, I have not been able to recover the memories from. Everyone in the UFO community is faced with a seemingly outrageous challenge, to try to make sense out of the enormity of material that there is to study. How do you effectively navigate a course through an incredible body of material that encompasses many different ancient civilizations that have megalithic architecture or giant stones?

How do you bring in the element of secret societies, and the occult ceremonies that are taking place within these societies? What is the relationship between those secret societies and the governance of our modern world at the elite level? Is there a deep state? Is there some sort of supranational cult that is actually controlling the world? And then, how does this knowledge gel with the concept of a spontaneous quantum leap in human evolution that could be coming our way? A good starting point for this esoteric investigation is to rethink everything that we thought we knew about history.

MICHAEL CREMO: My name is Michael Cremo. I'm a researcher in human origins and antiquity. And that has led me into other questions related to human origins. Evidence that goes beyond the timelines that modern science now accepts. Some people use the term OOPArts, that means "Out-of-Place Artifacts." According to what most scientists now believe, humans existed in a very primitive state for many hundreds of thousands of years. Human ancestors like Australopithecus and Homo Erectus, Neanderthal, and so on. You know, they think, according to the standard ideas, that the first humans like us came into existence about 200,000 years ago. And they think the first civilized humans began to exist about 10,000 years ago. But... if you look at some of these out-of-place artifacts, you can see some really amazing things. Some of them are pretty extreme. We have this very interesting area in Africa, and this area is called Klerksdorp.

CREMO: One of the more extreme examples were the Klerksdorp spheres. They're made of a naturally occurring type of iron ore called hematite. And these spheres, in multiple cases, have a very clear structure of three lines that are all parallel to each other, inscribed directly along the equator of the sphere. To me, that opens up the possibility that these metallic objects with these parallel grooves that go around the center of each one, were made by someone with human-like intelligence. What's really interesting is, they're found in mineral deposits in South Africa, that are about two billion years old. They are clearly artificial. They are clearly not a natural geological formation. They were carved by someone. This opens up another huge category of information, which is what has been referred to as "The Ancient Builder Race."

COREY GOODE: My name is Corey Goode. I'm a Secret Space Program (SSP) whistleblower and an extraterrestrial contactee. Because of my access and clearance in the programs, I was able to learn a lot more than what is generally available about the history of our solar system. So, during the time that I had this unprecedented access, I also started to look deeper into the history of our cosmos. And I started to find little bits and pieces about an ancient race that they refer to as "The Ancient Builder Race." And they called them that because they knew nothing about them. They had found ancient structures all throughout our solar system, and other solar systems that were around two billion years old.

WILCOCK: This is also a distinctly fascinating correlation because for many years, I have found connections between what the insiders are telling me about the Secret Space Program, and a unique body of material called The Law of One. The Law of One material claims to have been generated by extraterrestrials through a telepathic communication. I lived with the people who generated this for two years. Their group is called L/L Research. The source of The Law of One claims that it originated on the planet Venus, when it was Earth-like. They are similar to us, as in third density, or third dimensional, if you will. And they said that they date back 2.6 billion years ago. Now, that is amazing because we didn't know about the Klerksdorp spheres back in 1981 when this came through. And yet, the dating they gave in The Law of One, for when they were third dimensional like us, is exactly the same as the geological dating of the Klerksdorp spheres. And best of all, in The Law of One, that said they had a particular affinity for the pyramid shape, and they built it extensively. Therefore, it does appear that the solution to the mystery of who is the Ancient Builder Race is that this is the group now identifying now as Ra, the group that actually gave us The Law of One material.

The same group that ultimately contacted Corey Goode appearing as Blue Avians, now appearing in sixth density, billions of years later, after they were like us. They are apparently the most evolved extraterrestrial group that has ever been involved with humanity. So, one of the few things that we do know about this Ancient Builder Race, is that they had created this giant defensive grid around this local stellar neighborhood that we're a part of. Fifty-two local stars clustered together. And they had created these giant Death Star types of ships, that were the size of moons and planets that set up a grid around the entire local star cluster that prevented any types of intruders from coming in.

And this grid was emplaced, and kept our local stellar neighborhood safe from intruders for billions of years. It does appear, based on some very understated things they say in The Law of One, that they had quite the vast civilization, that they spread out to many neighboring stars.

This is the Ancient Builder Race, they colonized all the neighboring stars in our solar system. Then, you have to ask yourself, "What could've survived for more than two billion years?" Well, this is very fascinating because throughout our solar system, according to insiders, we have a "Cosmic Junkyard." What is the junkyard? It is a collection of crystalline ruins. These ruins are made of a glass-like material. And the material is not actually glass. It is a transparent aluminum alloy. There have already been alloys of transparent aluminum made by various companies here on Earth. And when they stress test these alloys, they find out that they are five times stronger in their tensile strength than bulletproof glass.

As our Secret Space Program has apparently gone beyond our solar system with reverse-engineered technology similar to what they acquired in the Roswell crash, over 70 years ago now, they found that all of the approximately 54 different stars in our own local group of stars, which are all gravitationally connected, every one of those stars has planets and moons and satellites with these same crystalline ruins on them. Obelisks, pyramids, and domes. Fly by the comets, visit asteroids, visit the moon of Mars. There's a monolith. They're a very unusual structure on this object that goes around Mars once in seven hours. When people find out about that, they're going to say, "Who put that there?" Those obelisks, pyramids, and domes only constitute what is visible on the surface.

The Ancient Builder Race spent a lot more energy, building inside these moons and planets. We're talking about vast regions that are habitable, where all you really need to do is seal off the door to the outside and reintroduce air pressure. And now you have pressurized an environment that can be occupied by human beings.

RICHARD HOAGLAND: What I believe is, that in 1976, when Viking did this incredible reconnaissance in the bicentennial summer, they photographed something that was a mystery, was at the centerpiece of the NASA raison d'etre for going to Mars, the search for life, and they then never followed up. It's a set of pictures, two separate sets of frames at two different Sun angles that show a collection of pyramids, and astounding geometric regularity in this layout. We don't have to prove they're artifacts, all we have to do is provide probable cause to suspect they could be, and then the ethics of science say, you got to go and test.

WILCOCK: When you got back to the original NASA imagery of the Martian surface from 1976, there are two frames that really matter. There's 35-A-76, and there's 70-A-13. When you compare what is on these two frames, you clearly see a city of what obviously appear to be pyramids, which apparently, again, were emulations of the Ancient Builder Race crystal pyramids, that they'd found throughout our solar system and beyond. There is a gigantic pyramid, estimated to be a mile-and-a-half wide. And this pyramid is clearly pentagonal, five-sided. But what is even more fascinating than that is that there are two of the five corners at the top of the pyramid that are narrower than the others. And when you actually look at the pyramid, it is the five-star human pattern of the human body. You can superimpose The Vitruvian Man on top of what they call the D&M Pyramid on Mars, and it precisely fits. Now, what does that mean? That means the five-sided pyramid on Mars is anthropomorphic. It is a human image. It is a pyramid built in the image of the human body. So, believe it or not, pyramids and obelisks have been found on the Moon, on Mars, and on other moons and satellites throughout our solar system, that are very damaged, and very, very old. Over two billion years old. This civilization that was on Mars was very aware of the Ancient Builder Race. And that these ruins, as their civilization evolved, they discovered they were very extensive, they were always made of this transparent aluminum crystal, and there are many places you can go, where you can go inside a moon and find enormous city's worth of space.

MICHAEL SALLA: I'm Dr. Michael Salla. I'm the author of The Secret Space Program book series. I'm investigating ways to introduce information concerning classified technologies that have been suppressed from the general public for decades, and are now going to be released, we think, in the very short future. Some of you might be asking, "How could giant bases be built on the Moon?" We know, according to a group of Japanese scientists that released a paper in 2017 that giant caverns have been discovered in the Moon. And that one of these caverns is big enough to house the entire metropolitan region of Philadelphia within it. The people who were involved in this Ancient Builder Race seem to have mysteriously disappeared, and the cultures that came after them worshiped them as gods. They would emulate their architecture. The people who were on Mars, which we call the Progenitor race, they actually built their own structures that were very similar to what they had found all throughout our solar system.

GOODE: We had Tiamat, which they is a...

Basically, a super massive Earth, and we had Maldek, which was Mars. Much smaller than Earth, but it was behaving as a moon around Tiamat. Two different civilizations had developed, and they were very similar. The beings on Tiamat, they all had these elongated skulls that we've seen in various studies. But they were slightly different. The beings on Tiamat were slightly taller and had different shaped skulls. The beings on Maldek were slightly skinnier and smaller, and again, had slightly different skulls, but they were genetically related. They were considered, basically, cousins. And they had royal families from both sides that were in competition with each other and warred with one another. So, at some point, this group that we call the pre-Adamites, they entered into warfare with another civilization, that is in our local 52-star cluster. And they developed this plan to harness the Ancient Builder Race grid, and to use it as a weapon against their enemies. And this grid, it works through what we call "the cosmic web." Every star, every planet is connected with an electromagnetic filament. And that's how portal travel works. You travel through these electromagnetic filaments,

WALLACE THORNHILL: ...and has been used by some top scientists. So, it is an idea which actually had currency in the last century, in the 19th century. And for those who care to go back into history and look at the major scientific journals of that period, you'll notice that articles on the electrical nature of comets, and the possible electrical activity on the Sun, were topics of discussion. Unfortunately, in the early part of the 20th century, all of that was more or less suppressed. Something that, of course, we're brought up to believe, and that is that gravity is the controlling influence in the universe. It's what causes the planets to orbit around the Sun, and the Moon around the Earth, and to cause the tides upon the Earth. All of that is true up to a point, but the thing to remember is that, basically, there is no understanding of gravity. Einstein's theory doesn't explain gravity. It has matter somehow affecting space in a way which is completely unphysical, in other words, warping empty space. There's no explanation as to how this might happen, or what it even means. So, we have more equations, but without any real meaning. What I'm suggesting is that we don't have an explanation for gravity, and until we do, we will not understand the limitations of that theory. 2017, on my website, I released two DIA reference documents that had never been released before. These documents were given to me by Washington, D.C. beltway insiders. And they wanted me to release them on a certain date.

JORDAN SATHER: My name's Jordan Sather, I'm an Internet influencer, speaker and journalist. So, the interesting thing about these particular DIA documents, these documents that were written for the AATIP program that the DOD conducted between 2007 and 2012, these DIA documents, we've never actually been able to read them in the public domain. What's really interesting is that at the end of 2017, Corey Goode had actually released two of these 38 DIA scientific papers to the public in full. And this has actually shocked many of the people who even wrote these scientific papers. Dr. Eric Davis, he confirmed that Corey Goode was the first person to leak some of these papers out into the public. Corey Goode is unique because he is the first person that I know of, that is both a contactee, someone who has had extensive contacts with extraterrestrial civilizations, while also being an insider of actually having worked in some of these compartmentalized programs. And what's even more significant about him is that he is trusted sufficiently by insiders to be given some of these documents, some of these Defense Intelligence reference documents, to basically release to the general public to get people up to speed with the possibility of these kinds of advanced technologies existing.

These DIA documents support the idea that wormhole travel is actually possible through the cosmic web. Using the same web is how the Ancient Builder Race built this galactic protection grid around our local star cluster. In this case, the pre-Adamites were trying to weaponize this natural system, and what they tried to do is use this feedback from this grid to cause the star of their enemies to go supernova, and to then destroy the civilization. But they didn't time it right. The way that energy passes through this cosmic web, and they chose the exact wrong moment, and it caused our Sun to super flare. And when it did, it destroyed Tiamat, and ripped the atmosphere away from Mars. And it then also affected the atmosphere of Earth and all of the other planets. Their trajectories changed in this event.

The most important researcher supporting the Exploded Planet Hypothesis is Dr. Thomas Van Flandern, and he was the head of the US Naval Observatory, in Washington, D.C. And he came up with this theory that between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, the present asteroid belt, there was once a super Earth, a very large planet that was in that orbital region. And he came up with a paper that actually explained how this planet existed at some point. And how the asteroid belt is evidence of this planet's destruction, through events that we could only speculate about. And Dr. Thomas Van Flandern supported this Exploded Planet Hypothesis by studying the geology of Mars. And what he found was that half of Mars was basically 20 miles thicker than the other half. And that was evidence of it facing this exploding planet and receiving all the debris. And this was also an explanation for why the atmosphere of Mars was suddenly evaporated hundreds of thousands of years ago.

And I heard about it in secret programs that did much more research than what Tom Van Flandern had access to. And the code name for this was, "Brilliant Pebbles." One of the fascinating things when I first met Corey Goode, was that he knew what the code name Brilliant Pebbles meant without me to tell him. I had already written it up. I already had recordings of people telling me this name. So, in the 1980s, scientists wanted to know what used to be where the asteroid belt is. They knew about Tiamat, but they didn't think there was enough debris there to actually corroborate that there was a planet there at one time. They developed this algorithm that traced back over time where these pieces would've been joined, and would've been one piece. and where mathematically all of the other planets would've been. And they were able to extrapolate, that yes, there was a planet that was in that location. But most of it had been blown further out of the orbit. Interestingly enough, though, there was a project Brilliant Pebbles in 1987 by the beginnings of the Secret Space Program, SDI, enacted by President Reagan, that had to do more with a missile shield. And often, they would reuse... Within a certain set of programs, they will reuse a program name so that they have plausible deniability of higher, more secretive programs. They would layer them within the same name. And that way, if someone would mention "Brilliant Pebbles," one of the scientists would be able to say, "Oh, no. That just had to do with a missile shield. "It had nothing to do with anything extraterrestrial."

SALLA: There's a CIA document that actually has the transcript of a remote viewing session, where the remote viewer was asked to look at what happened to Mars just before a cataclysm that occurred up to a million years ago. And Joseph McMoneagle was the remote viewer who looked at Mars at the time of it undergoing some kind of planetary catastrophe, probably associated with the exploding super planet. What he saw was that these surviving Martians getting on this spacecraft on these planetary arcs and evacuating to another planet which had a very equatorial region with volcanoes and so forth. This is where the Martians evacuated to.

So, after the great destruction of Tiamat, and Maldek was damaged beyond repairing itself, these pre-Adamites took the Moon as a giant ship, a giant conveyance. It was also in the vicinity of Tiamat. They hijacked the Moon and flew it to the Earth, and they tidal-locked it with the Earth to keep it in place. And they lived on the Moon for thousands of years, observing the culture, the development of civilization going on their planet below. And at the same time, having certain colonies down where they knew Ancient Builder Race remnants were.

The survivors of the catastrophe who were inside Earth's Moon then suffered another massive cataclysm 55,000 years ago, and we now know that this was caused by a solar flash, a massive emission of light, energy and matter from the Sun. Part of the problem when you have these solar flashes is that in addition to an enormous heating of the atmospheres and even the surfaces of planets, which could be up to 1,000 degree Celsius, we're literally talking about a heat that can melt stone. You also have the Sun throwing off a great deal of debris. A great deal of chunky, molten material that will physically strike the surface of planets and moons. This solar flash is what now is being called a micronova.

A supernova is where a star completely explodes and nothing is left except for a red dwarf or a brown dwarf, whereas the micronova causes an incredible flash to occur. But the star maintains its stability and structure in the aftermath. The latest NASA research, it's only come out in the last year, proves that there are multiple documented examples of micronovas everywhere we look.

This is not uncommon, stars do this naturally, and it is a very normal aspect of a given solar system.

GOODE: So, after these pre-Adamite groups from Tiamat and Maldek had moved to the Moon, they were there for thousands of years. And as we know now, the Solar System goes through a cycle of destruction. We had another solar event that wreaked havoc on the Moon.

WILCOCK: It would appear, based on the historical records, that the people living inside the Moon did not know that the solar flash was going to happen. It was being kept secret from them by their own governmental elite. I once had an insider who we call "Bruce," who described that his faction of the military-industrial complex was only able to go inside these inner passageways in the Moon a total of six times on covert missions that they sent people in through. And they found a vast amount of control systems, where you walk into a room, the lights come on. You have these big, giant screens that are very wide, with displays on them, there are control surfaces in front of them, and it was gorgeous. And this goes on for miles and miles and miles, countless. Everywhere you look, there are these bodies that have not been cleaned up because the amount of square footage inside the Moon is so vast, and the amount of death is so vast, that huge regions inside the Moon have never been cleaned up, never been explored, and there is a horrible stench from these decaying dead bodies.

GOODE: And the remnants that survived that new catastrophe of pre-Adamites loaded up into their last three mother ships from their home planets, and they flew those down to Earth. They were damaged, and it was more of a crash landing. Later on, when our Secret Space Program located the remnants of these ships under the ice in Antarctica, they named them the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria. So, when these three mother ships crash-landed, the pre-Adamites that inhabited them began to cannibalize the technology and materials to build out a great civilization, and this civilization would later be known as Atlantis. Another important historical reference to existence of advanced civilizations is Plato's description of Atlantis. He described an island continent with incredibly advanced technologies, with a wonderful canal system and concentric rings, that this was something that was built in a series of islands, and it was the center of a vast empire that existed beyond the Pillars of Hercules. And many people speculate as to where Atlantis is, but I believe Atlantis is probably the western portion of Antarctica, especially around the Palmer Peninsula, but this was prior to 9700 BC, actually ice-free. They landed in Antarctica, where there is apparently a pyramid that if you could see it without the ice covering it, is much larger than the Great Pyramid of Giza. That pyramid was a landmark for the surface feature of something that is predominantly underground. There are enormous Ancient Builder Race ruins underneath the surface in Antarctica. The Progenitors crash-landed in Antarctica, but at the time, the Earth was on a different axial tilt, and Antarctica was not covered by ice.

SALLA: In the 15th century, the Piri Reis map was produced. And what it shows is the coastline of northern South America, Africa, as well as what appears to be Antarctica, the Palmer Peninsula, as well as part of Neuschwabenland. Now, this was well before Antarctica was discovered. When we explore the idea of Antarctica being ice-free, we have to look at the evidence of pole shifts. And the person who's most associated with theories of pole shifts is Charles Hapgood, who wrote a book called the Earth's Shifting Crust, and his book was supported by Albert Einstein, who wrote the foreword to it, and basically believed that Hapgood was correct in terms of his theory, how the pole shifts approximately 40 degrees from one age to another age.

GOODE: This pre-Adamite group, while their civilization was thriving on Tiamat and Maldek, they became very, very proficient geneticists. And they brought that with them to the Earth. And when they got to the Earth, they found inhabitants that were humanoid beings. They then started to play around with the genetics of these early humans, and developed them into a number of different species, including hybrids with animals that they used as a slave force.

WILCOCK: So, the people who crash-landed in what we now call Antarctica, began to introduce their DNA into the genetic material of humans from Earth. And those people who were cloned out did have the elongated skull physiology. Apparently there were two royal lineages that go all the way back to the source planets themselves, and they have slightly different features. When you look at the elongated skulls, some of them have a distinct bun-like bump. that looks almost like there is a ball on the surface of their head there, whereas other elongated skulls have a smooth slope, without that bun-like protrusion. This apparently refers to the two major types of extraterrestrial lineages from this exploded planet. So, the pre-Adamites thrived for thousands of years and became the Atlantians. 11,800 years ago, our Sun had another micronova, and this was one of the more severe micronovas. And as the ejecta from the micronova left the Sun, it impacted the Moon and also Earth. According to the maps Charles Hapgood supplied, and ice-core samples, two British researchers, Rand Flem-Ath and his wife, Rose Flem-Ath wrote a book called Atlantis Under the Ice. What that book shows is that West Antarctica, the Palmer Peninsula in particular, was actually 40 degrees north of its present location in the temperate zone. And that approximately in 9700 BC, this is when the... This coincides with what Plato described as the time Atlantis collapsed into the ocean, that this is when the pole shift occurred. And so, that coincided with that region of Antarctica moving down towards the South Pole, and it being frozen over, and everything that was in that continent was flooded and flash-frozen. And so, according to the maps and the ice-core samples, what we can see about Antarctica is that indeed, West Antarctica has been ice-free for significant periods because the ice-core samples only go back several thousand years at most. Whereas, when we look at the ice-core samples from East Antarctica, these are millions of years old.

GOODE: When the Earth shifted on its axis, it caused Antarctica to move from a lush tropical zone to a colder region. And it did so, so quickly that it flash-froze the waves that were leaping over the continent. Several years ago, the CIA declassified a document that was authored by a geologist by the name of Chan Thomas. That document is called The Adam and Eve Story. And it describes a cataclysmic series of events associated with the pole shift of up to 90 degrees, where the Antarctic and the Arctic, those both flipped approximately 90 degrees, so that they are now at the equatorial zones of the planet.

NARRATOR: "With a rumble so low as to be inaudible, "growing and fuming into a thunderous roar, "the earthquake starts. "Only, it's not like any earthquake in recorded history. "In California, the mountains shake like ferns in a breeze, "the mighty Pacific rears back "and piles up into a mountain of water two miles high "and starts its race eastward. "With the force of a thousand armies, the wind attacks. "Within three hours, the fantastic wall of water moves across the continent, "burying the wind-ravaged land "under two miles of seething water coast-to-coast. "Central America suffers the same cannonade. "South America finds the Andes not high enough "to stop the cataclysmic violence pounded out by water in her berserk rage. "In less than a day, "Ecuador, Peru, western Brazil are shaken madly "by the devastating earthquake, burned by Mother Earth-fire, "buried under cubic miles of torrential Pacific seas, "and then turned into a frozen hell. "Everything freezes. "Man, beast, plant, and mud are all rock-hard in less than four hours. "Europe cannot escape the onslaught. "Western Africa and the sands of the Sahara vanish in nature's wrath. "The area bounded by the Congo, South Africa, "and Kenya suffers only severe earthquakes and wind. "Survivors there marvel at the Sun, "standing still in the sky for nearly half a day. "As the Arctic Basin leaves its polar home, "eastern Siberia, Manchuria, China, and Burma are subjected "to the same annihilation as South America, "wind, Earth-fire, inundation, and freezing. "The Bay of Bengal basin, just east of India is now at the North Pole. "The Pacific Ocean, just west of Peru, is at the South Pole." Australia is the new, unexplored continent in the world's temperate zone, "with only a few handfuls of survivors populating its vastness. "The cataclysm has done its work well, "and drives the pitiful few who survive into a new stone age. "Once more, the Earth has shifted its shell "with the poles moving almost to the Equator in a fraction of a day. "Again, the atmosphere and oceans refusing to change direction "with the Earth's shell, have wiped out almost all life. "After this tumble, "we'll join Noah, Adam and Eve, Atlantis, Mu, and Olympus." When we look at ice-core samples, it doesn't support a pole shift occurring to that extent. Not 90 degrees. But certainly, 40 degrees or less, that's what the ice-core samples support. These cataclysms would result in large loss of life throughout the planet, and that there would be portions of the planet, however, that would escape the worst of these winds and of these tsunamis. And those would be the survivors that would build civilization again, from the ashes of that great catastrophe.

Thanks to the insider testimony of Corey Goode, we have now discovered that the people with the elongated skulls, are survivors of a catastrophe that took place in our solar system. And what I find uniquely fascinating is that once they crash-landed on Earth 55,000 years ago, they quickly made a treaty with each other. Even though they were at war, they decided to co-exist on the Earth. One lineage said, "We will take..." what we would now call Africa and Europe. The other lineage said, "We will take..." South America, North America, and the eastern half of Asia. Now, what I find particularly intriguing is that when you look at the pyramid architecture that occurred in the aftermath of this treaty, there are slight variations. Each of these original lineages had unique styles to their pyramids.

Let's talk about the pyramids that you see in Egypt and throughout Africa, and how those pyramids have smooth walls going up, that are very distinctly not terraced. Then, when we go to Mesoamerica, we notice there are distinct differences in the architectural style, where now, you have step pyramids, which almost consistently show different courses.

SAM OSMANAGICH: Officially, they've been programming us. The pyramids are built in Egypt and Central America. And that's wrong because the pyramids have been built on all six continents. Probably, at this moment in time, there is no living soul who have visited and investigated more pyramids than myself. In China, 250 pyramids near the city of Xi'an. We have pyramids in Indonesia. Our friend, Dr. Danny Hilman, discovered pyramid in the western part of the island of Java. It is known under the name Gunung Padang, "the hill of light." Cambodia, Southeastern Asia, the Koh Ker, in the north eastern part of the country, a beautiful pyramid. Australia, two hours ride from Brisbane to the north, Gympie Pyramid. In Africa, 155 pyramids. The island of Mauritius, 4,000 kilometers away from the African continent, in the middle of the Indian Ocean, seven beautiful stepped pyramid. More than 300 pyramids in Peru. And then, Tucume pyramids in the northern part, more than 200 of them. The biggest one, of course, Huaca del Sol, the Pyramid of the Sun, near the town of Trujillo. There are probably well over 100,000 pyramids. Maybe up to half a million. But more than 97% are still hidden in the jungles and forests.

WILCOCK: At Angkor Wat, in Cambodia, we have a very unique outlay of different pyramidal type sites. And, according to the work of Graham Hancock, those different architectural sites, although they appear to be randomly positioned, actually align with the constellation known as Draco. And what's best of all is that there is a drift in the Earth's axis called the precession of the equinoxes. And the alignment of where this series of pyramids in the Angkor Wat area of Cambodia line up with the position of the Draco constellation. This only works if you go back 12,500 years ago, and this is precisely the same as the alignment that everyone is familiar with, with the Pyramids of Giza and the stars in the belt of the constellation of Orion. Another thing that is very fascinating about Angkor Wat is that when you look at some of the temples within this area, and there is one, for example, called Baksei Chamkrong. Oh, my God! It looks exactly like the step pyramids in Mesoamerica. As you look at this overlay, notice the perfection of how these two different pyramids fit together. This is not a different society. This is a unified culture.

But, wait a minute. We've got Mesoamerica, and we've got Cambodia. They're separated by the vastness of the Pacific Ocean, and yet, they are using exactly the same architecture. The elongated skull physiology has been found all over the planet. We see it in Boskop, South Africa. We see the same type of remains being dug up in a dig in Siberia, in a town called Omsk. We also saw reports that the Mongolians or the Huns, as they conquered, going west, had these strange elongated skull features as well. We see these skulls in the tombs of the elite in Europe. And then, interestingly enough, you have a different strain that we find in the Americas, both North and South. I find it very fascinating that this evidence is hidden out in the open. We see these elongated skulls all over the world, but we don't ask the deeper questions. This becomes a very important question of how the modern-day Illuminati, "deep state" or cabal, actually do believe that they are the remnant of these people with the elongated skulls.

ROBERT DAVID STEELE: The deep state consists of the Rothschilds, the British royal family, the Vatican, and the Chabad cult, which many Jews do not consider to be Jewish. They consider it to be a Caesarean criminal organization. The secret societies are higher than the countries in terms of the loyalties of their membership. Whether it began with stellar-civilizations... I've met someone who purports to be from a stellar civilization. And I've been informed they don't like the term "extraterrestrial." They prefer "stellar civilization." Be that as it may, whether you believe in extraterrestrial stuff or not, it's clear that here on Earth, there's a 1%, there's a 99%. In 2012, the forces of good started to win. And the Mayans and others have predicted this, and I think... The way I explain it to myself is that the collective meditation and prayer that was being done, ended up bringing in the positive... Stellar civilizations. And now, the negative stellar civilizations are on the run, and the elites are on the run.

Now, the good news is, I think human beings are an experiment in free will. And I believe that if we can resurrect our individual sovereignty, there is no power in the galaxy that can stand up to us.

WILCOCK: As I got older, there was another series of high strangeness events that took place. I was often having high fevers as I grew up. And these fevers were correlated with two distinct phenomena that would always happen. The first thing is that I would have a very strong sense of pressure in my ears, and I would start yelling to try to get over the sound. The other thing that would happen is, I would get geometry in these hallucinations during the fevers. I would feel as if the world around me had been turned into geometry. I would see strange geometric patterns like mandalas superimposed over everything. This was not at all enjoyable. It was very unpleasant. I would be screaming, and my mother would have to calm me down. As I got older, I discovered that those fevers were most likely an extraterrestrial phenomena in nature, that there was something going on. The way these extraterrestrials on the benevolent side change our DNA is through a virus. Now, remember, what does a virus do? It defeats the cell wall and injects its own DNA into your cell. You can take a cell that defines who you are with its DNA and inject new code into it with a virus. I remember having dreams where I was seeing benevolent, ordinary human-looking people like the old man in robes, coming into my space, landing in this roughly bus-shaped craft in my yard, bringing me on board, and actually giving me these injections of these viruses so that my DNA could be modified and upgraded. I would wake up in the middle of the night. I would be on some sort of program that I didn't consciously have any objection to, or I felt like it was time to go to school. I would walk out the side door, like it was time to go to school, but I would notice that everything was black, and I'd say, "What the heck is going on?" I'd turn around and go back into the house. Now, this appears, again, to be in the high strangeness category, but it seems that at that moment where I'm standing there with my backpack, looking at the darkness of the night, that I'm being spliced back in. And I would lose the memory from the time that I was standing there, to the time that I would return to the exact same location. This is actually a very common thing that you read about in the contactee literature regarding these extraterrestrial contact experiences. Now, it seems, in these experiences, that I was being brought on board some sort of extraterrestrial craft. There was some sort of training taking place, and these classes actually could take place for potentially weeks of time. And then I would be spliced right back into the moment I left. It does appear that there is a whole section of my life that I have conscious access to at this time. And certain insiders have told me that because of my unique family background, where the Wilcock line is an English aristocratic bloodline from Yorkshire, that I apparently do already have some of this extraterrestrial DNA. Right now, millions of people on this planet are already in contact with extraterrestrials, and they don't even realize it. These beings are contacting us through our dreams and through our subconscious. And many of the thoughts and ideas that we're coming up with don't originate from us. The purpose of contacting people through their dreams and subconscious is to acclimate them and prepare them for open face-to-face contact.

JAMES GILLILAND: I'm James Gilliland, and we're here at ECETI Ranch. "ECETI" stands for "Enlightened Contact with Extraterrestrial Intelligence." Yeah, the beginning of ECETI was, it actually came in visions. And I kept seeing visions of this massive mountain, and when I first came on the property, it was just unbelievable. It was like a movie out of the Old Testament or something. The mountain just... Clouds started changing. There was a giant lenticular cloud. It was lit up orange underneath. I got such a download. I was getting tears. I was just standing there, looking at the mountain, crying, and I just go, "This is it. This is the vision." I was focused on creating a healing center, like a retreat center. I wanted to just make it totally eclectic. I didn't want to pigeonhole it, or keep it with any one group. And about probably halfway through of building this center, they started showing up. The ships started showing up. It's got a double... It's weird. They... Whoa. Whoa! [LAUGHING] Thank you. That is unbelievably bright.

WOMAN: Thank you.

JAMES: Whoa, look at that. Look at that! Whoo-hoo! Whoa! And the first encounter was an all-day meditation. I was meditating, and I had a beautiful... transmission coming through about the Earth and humanity and our ancient history, who we are, and how we've gotten to where we are and what needs to happen to heal. You know, to clean up the planet and the consciousness here. And so, I asked them, "Where you coming from?" And they said, "Actually, we're on a ship." And I didn't even make it to the door, and my sister and her friends came up banging on the door and they go, "Did you see it?" And I said, "See what?" There is a huge light ship hovering over the house here. So, that was my first encounter, where I realized I needed to start doing some research on tying in the higher dimensional beings and spiritually and technologically advanced off-world visitors into the spirituality side of things. When you go within and start expanding in consciousness, we find that we're not just a body and a personality. We're spirit and a soul, and that's a multidimensional aspect of ourselves. And so, as you expand in awareness, you start taking in these other dimensions, and contact is a natural occurrence when that happens.

BARRY LITTLETON: My name is Barry Littleton. I do stock trading, Level 2 options, and I also am involved in social services. In the UFO field, I'm just stepping forward. It started off with childhood experiences. So, that's one of the things, but then I went into what's called... What I call "adult onset experiences," which included missing time. So, we're looking at... Almost 20 hours of my life was missing being on board these ships. When I talk about it now, it sounds very uniform. But it took a lifetime to put the pieces together. Instead, I was more into hiding it to a degree and try and just be normal and whatever it took to try to blend in, instead of talking about these experiences. Anything, like what I'm doing now. I always heard, it is termed as "demonic" and dealing with demons. And that labelling somebody as demons and crazy, that puts the most negative connotation on it possible.

So, that's one problem I think there is, and that's a real way to block people from talking about this and ever coming forward. These beings, they never would give me any revelations about the future. But they only gave me information concerning the Earth and always the technologies. And it was a lot of love energy that came off them, enough to where, being in the presence of a non-human, it would somewhat chill you out 'cause it's not just a normal thing. And there's a great risk of panic there. But the type of vibration coming off them, coming off their bio fields, was very calming. It started off with a being that was insectoid, and when he would come and interact with me in my daily life, he was doing something with the optic nerves, I'm sure of that, to make him appear even more human. But when I saw him on board the craft, he was definitely insectoid and ancient. Smaller.

Okay, that'd be the first being to step forward to me. There was another one that stepped forward that was Mana, but looks like Earth's brain coral is the way this being's head looked, okay? And taller, but very peaceful, and also, very scientific to a degree. I've also seen small blue beings that claim to be from Andromeda. Maybe about two-and-a-half-feet tall, I would say, those are some. And then there's the other portion that I had a hard time dealing with 'cause there's no frame of reference for this. It's that beings that are on board these crafts, that are non-corporeal, non-physical. They have different containers for their consciousness like plasma or light configurations. They're inside of the crafts themselves that I've seen, looked like type of a fungus, a type of a hard mushroom, just slightly different.

So, that told me these crafts were actually organic. If we're going to become a Type 1 civilization, we need to start just not incorporating the spiritual, but also the organic. Organic components into our space travel, definitely. I believe what is happening on the planet right now is a shift in consciousness and meaning not... I've heard it called other things such as "ascension," we're going to go to another dimension.

I've heard all these things, but I think in reality, it's a shift of consciousness because at least, in my opinion, 85% to 90% of our population has had extreme contact, but they can't remember it. They're unaware of it due to the fact our perception is so molded. Internet has helped with starting communication amongst what I call melanin-dominant contactees, experiencers. And like I said, it was the indoctrination of religion that kind of stopped that to a degree.

But right now, I think that the fact that certain people are coming forward and taken a few darts, is making it more accessible to others and others more comfortable about it. I believe they are reaching out because they're wanting right now to help us with this shift in consciousness. And what has been shown to me is humanity does have a type of free will, but we're not going to be allowed to destroy the Earth any more.

ROBERT SALAS: My name is Robert Salas, and I had an experience in the '60s, at Malmstrom Air Force Base as a missile launch officer. When this incident happened, right afterwards, we were ordered to sign a non-disclosure statement, and that had very strict penalties. If we broke that... The incident was classified. However, since it had been a long period of time, they were going to de-classify what I'll call the ECHO Flight Shutdown, the shutdown of 10 missiles.

The ECHO Flight incident happened March 16th, 1967. Ours happened eight days later, March 24th, '67. In addition to that, there had been many other incidents involving UFOs at nuclear missile sites. It happened again at Minot in 1968. It happened at Whiteman Air Force Base, right... And other bases, similar incidents.

It took time to get to this, the point where I realized that... we were certainly not alone in the universe. And I had plenty of time, of course, because I couldn't talk about it and... But eventually, I did get to that point, and it was a kind of awakening that what we were doing on Earth here, building up nuclear stockpiles, and having the ability to completely destroy every living thing on the planet... was not acceptable, not only to us, but to others in the cosmos.

The bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki still haunt me. I think about that a lot, and the fact that we could easily be involved in nuclear war today. We've done it with Chernobyl, we've done it with Fukushima... That's immoral. It's immoral to the whole human race. We can't just adopt... the morals or ethics of one particular country or group of people. We're talking about humanity as a whole, and how we fit in to the cosmos. We are... It should be obvious to everyone by now that we are not alone, and it's ridiculous to think that we are. And the entities have spoken. They have said, "You should not have nuclear weapons."

PETER MAXWELL SLATTERY: My name is Peter Maxwell Slattery, and I'm from Australia, and I'm a lifelong experimenter with probably the largest catalog of UFOs, paranormal activity captured on camera and video in the world. There's so many different types of crafts that are filmed. Whether they look like they're plasma, they're morphing, changing shape, there's egg-shaped type crafts, pearls.

And if we look at the translated word of Buddha, they talk about pearls in the sky that brought the gods down to Earth to visit man. I've always been an experimenter since a young age. It started off with telepathy. Not long after that, I started to see gray aliens, but no voice. I didn't know if they were aliens, angels, demons. I just didn't know what it was.

My journey with coming out about my experiences was the hardest thing I have and ever will do, in my opinion. I've been shot at. I've had death threats. I get hate mail almost on a daily basis. And I didn't ask to go on the news or to talk about this. I had the news come to me and ask me if they could use my footage, and I just wanted to know what the hell was going on.

I went and got brain scans, I went and talked to people, I thought I was literally going insane. A lot of us do think about suicide. We think about just going away, and never ever seeing anybody ever again, or just completely forgetting about this reality and going back to a 3D life.

To tell my mother and father, my brother, my step-brothers and sisters, friends... I was sort of stupid to some extent, thinking people are just going to believe it 'cause I've experienced it. 'Cause when it's happening, it's like... "The world needs to know this." This is the most important subject. It goes through everything to do with energy, agriculture, society, everything we can think of.

Space travel, our consciousness, and how we treat each other. This, hands down, is the most important issue. Every aspect of your reality changes when you are experiencing what I call multi-dimensional reality. An experience that I've had that really touched my heart with the start of all this was, I was in my lounge room, and broad daylight, middle of the day, and I was approached to what I can only call these liquid blue light beams. Now, before this experience, I'd have seen these liquid blue light orbs coming in and out of my house.

I didn't know what it was, but one day they appeared as seven-foot-tall light beings. They were not male, they were not female, and the information exchange from that experience, it didn't last too long, but there was like... It's almost like somebody stuck a USB stick in your consciousness. And all this data, imagery, information of a wide range of scope on different aspects of, not just humanity, but who we are, where we come from, all this data just came flooding in.

But the information from this being was relating to who I am. That I need to wake up and remember who I really am. It comes down to something that I call Operation Starseed. And why I say Starseed, not just that we're from the stars, we are from source, an overall collective.

They showed me the makeup of this reality, shown other universes, and each universe we could call "Source" or "God," and it had its own planes and dimensions that created another super intelligence. These universes will sail over a bigger intelligence.

And so, from that understanding and that experience, they were showing me that, "We've come down the planes and dimensions," the strongest souls right now, to help uplift the consciousness evolution here. A conscious evolution to help humanity help themselves.

WILCOCK: So, what we have on Earth is a wide variety of different extraterrestrial races who cherry-picked DNA from all over the galaxy. Let's look at this particular population, let's look at this particular population. They're all fundamentally human, or humanoid, at least. 'Cause that's a constant throughout the galaxy. But this particular human race has a spiritual sense. This particular race has telekinesis. This particular race has telepathy. Or has some sort of unique resiliency. And can we chop that out, and then make our own designer humans who have the best of everything we can find all throughout the galaxy.

Over 60 of these genetic farmer race groups came together and formed a super federation. And this super federation was formed to help them manage this great experiment that was made up of 22 different genetic experiments on human beings on this planet. Some of the examples of how they would make these genetic changes is that they would use viruses as delivery systems.

They would make changes to certain genetic markers, or genome in this virus and use the virus as a delivery system. And not only did the virus deliver the genetic changes to the civilizations they were working on, but they also were used to call off the weaker genetics and allow the experiment to thrive.

These genetic programs were developed to boost or enhance the natural evolution or ascension of the beings on the planet. And what they would do, is they would take a genetic approach, where they would tinker with our genetics, and instead of allowing eons of time for genetic changes to occur, they would cause them almost instantaneously.

So, on our planet, we have all of these different genetic experiments that are, in some cases, competing with each other. To prevent these experiments from mixing with each other, or wiping each other out, they began to develop social norms and different ways for these cultures to self-police, and protect their own genetic experiment from being interfered with. So, as they're helping us evolve genetically, they're also helping us evolve on a consciousness level.

They bring us various belief systems, religions, they instill social norms in us that help us self-police ourselves, and manicure our consciousness along with our genetics to develop them in tandem. Even today, these experiments are compartmentalized through religion, language, geographic location, and culture. And there's also a cosmic component.

The goal is that eventually, the civilization that they're experimenting on and working on become self-guiding. They get to a point to where they control their own genetics and their own consciousness development, as well as join the super federation and going out to other planets and assisting those civilizations in the same process. Now that we've developed to a point of travelling the cosmos ourselves, we've gotten to a point to where we're self-managing ourselves. And this super federation is being disbanded, and we're taking over our own genetic and spiritual development. As a result of all this, the infrastructure that has been built out secretly in our solar system, will now be handed over to the rest of humanity.

Another very important point to note here is that the DNA changes that the genetic farmers put into us are at this point, still predominantly dormant. They are, if you will, locked up in the 95 plus percent of our DNA that appears to not normally be used, which our scientists call junk DNA. We only use about five to 10% of our DNA for building our body. They call these "coding DNA sequences," meaning that they code proteins to make our physical body width. Ninety to 95% of our DNA is non-coding DNA. In other words, mainstream science has no idea what this DNA really does. They call it "junk DNA." Why would any sort of intelligent designer put junk in our body? Put something in our body that's useless? That wouldn't happen. In fact, what I believe is that this 90 to 95% of junk DNA is actually used metaphysically. It's used for our consciousness in ways that we just don't really understand yet

JOHN DESOUSA: My name is John DeSouza. I was an FBI special agent for 25 years. One of the things that I noticed at the FBI and in any law enforcement group, really, is that they are demonstrative of the larger rule that there's always a percentage in any segment that demonstrate these extraordinary powers. These extraordinary abilities are five, six, seven percent. Luckily for us, they save extraordinary numbers of people's lives using those abilities. I think what sets these people, this segment of the population, what sets them apart from everyone else, is that they have some kind of marker that designates them as having parts of their DNA activated that the majority of the population doesn't have. And that's something that's evident. No matter where you go, in every group, there's always that segment, that remainder of people, they just activate.

One of the first great experiences of the paranormal that was shared by me and hundreds of other law enforcement officers was what we call "the Indigo kids of 9/11." This was groups of little kids, little kids as young as five, six, seven years old, all over the United States that in the weeks and just days before the 9/11 terrorist attacks... they had cognitive experiences of what was going to happen, and they displayed those experiences the way the little kids would. At school, sometimes, they did it with drawings. With finger-paints, with arts and crafts, representing burning buildings where people were jumping out of the buildings. And people, no one really paid that much attention to it until 9/11 happened.

And then we set up all these intel centers, saying, "Report anything. Anything at all that occurred just before 9/11. "Anything suspicious. Anything at all. Doesn't matter what it is." And people did. People reported these little kids. They reported them as having dreams and visions, and arts and crafts representing what happened in 9/11. So, we had to go investigate these little kids for possible connection to terrorism. And their parents. We had to go question them. And we did. And in every case, every case, they had a vision, they had a sense, they had a remote viewing, they had something of that sort. And there was no physical explanation how they could have known, and that's the Indigo Kids of 9/11.

It's very evident to me that corporations and government, intel agencies are very intent on monitoring and identifying everyone who's had these anomalous experiences. Because they want to identify them, because later on, they're probably going to scoop 'em up. It's like gun registration. You gotta know where the guns are, so you can get them all later on.

Now, certain cosmic laws were established for these genetic experiments. To avoid violating these cosmic laws some of these ET genetic farmer races would incarnate as humans and allow themselves to be experimented upon. These genetic farmer races would also incarnate here for raising our consciousness. We have various people like Tesla and Einstein who are most likely starseeds or incarnates of these extraterrestrials. These people brought philosophies and scientific principles that radically changed our civilization.

One of my favorite quotes from Nikola Tesla is that he said the gift of mental power comes from God, the divine being. And if we concentrate our minds on that truth, we become in tune with this great power. So, I think what Tesla was trying to tell us is that there is this, sort of, divine intelligence out there that every single one of us has access to if we choose to access it. If we do what's necessary. If we open our minds up to access or to tap into that greater intelligence.

According to the different contactees that I've interviewed, basically, what we're witnessing at the very moment is a temporal war between different extraterrestrial groups. There is a positive extraterrestrial group predominantly human-looking, that basically want us to develop our civilization along the path of an ethical, responsible civilization, where we basically become part of a galactic community.

There's another extraterrestrial group that are aggressive, and they want the Earth to basically develop along the lines of a tyrannical civilization. In a way, these 22 experiments were similar to competing term papers. Each of these races were trying to make their experiment the one that came out on top. So, they would often sabotage each other's experiments. And one of the ways they did this was to manipulate time. And this is what led to the Mandela Effect that we are experiencing today.

SALLA: The Mandela Effect is this idea that people have different recollections of historical events. The most famous one is, some people remember Nelson Mandela dying in prison, and others don't. What the Mandela Effect represents is it's an echo of this temporal war that different extraterrestrial groups are trying to take us down one timeline or the other, depending on which faction is dominant at any time.

There's a long history of colonization projects and starting over. The best evidence of that is called Gosford glyphs in Australia. So, the first landings were actually in Australia, not in Africa. It's written in the stone on the Gosford glyphs, and it talks about how a ship came down.

There was a Denisovan man, the original man that was here, they added their genetics to him, and they created the hybrids. When they did this, they manipulated to create, basically, the Aboriginal, the original people. And it was so they could incarnate into that body and have the Earth-human experience.

When I talked to the king of the Raven Tribe, Uluki Brendan Murray, a lot of his information tied in with James and myself through contacts. The tribe used to meet the Star People there. And then what happened was, it was all positive... and consensual.

But then something happened, where other beings were turning up, and started to actually remove people from that site and take them on their crafts. And in a time when the human DNA had that multistrain, like, six double helixes instead of the two, that we've been hindered to. Where the people would transform and escape these kidnappings from these crafts. And the older people were informed that they were taking people off to other continents, and creating new humans out of our DNA here. And it was a group from Orion who were meant to be coming and doing the kidnapping. A negative ET group. Right across this continent... the DNA had become attached to the land, and the land attached to the actual DNA. We are no different to the planet itself. We're just a fractal.

And that it was seven major forms of our DNA created in the first place. And I know that some people talk about when the seven major forms of DNA was first created, that they created another... like a future form of another five, like semi tones. For development, the interbreeding... when these different physical aspects come together to create new life, then the soul structure was different as well from the previous generations, that a soul structure was already implemented in the ethos. Just like music had its seven major tones, five semi tones to make it 12. The creators understood that there was a common... Seven major forms of humans were going to start to mingle. And so, they allotted these five extra tones or semitones for the people to be interbred with and to become interracial. Now, a lot of elders, whether it's in America or Australia or other cultures, they talk about that they were seeded by the Pleiadians. We also have a lot of rock paintings and cave art depicting what we called the Wandjina, the Sky Beings.

CLIFFORD MAHOOTY: My name is Clifford Mahooty. I'm a Zuni Pueblo Indian. And I have been working to get a lot of information among indigenous groups, especially the North American Indians, and our neighbors to the south, our brothers and sisters, the Mesoamerican Indian people. And I'm doing this because it is about time that we start gathering the information to convey and pass on to future generations. The origins of those protocols were provided by what, again, we call the "Star People." Or, the spiritual people from different realms. Primarily from the... What we call the "Sky People." And also the deities that they brought in from other parts of the cosmos, they were put in place so that they have one way of worship. If you look at it in terms of the origin of what we started out as, is that technology and spirituality were connected real tight in the beginning. And throughout the ages, they separated technology away from the spirituality, and then it became hard science. And somewhere in that path, man invented religion. Religion was primarily for three basic reasons. First of all, was fear. And of course, the other was control. And the third one was greed. And so, it worked against spirituality. The indigenous community had technology that was performed through the conscious methodology. For example, there was remote viewing.

JOHN VIVANCO: I'm John Vivanco, and I've been in remote viewing for over 20 years. I was working in a civilian thinktank. We were a civilian operation, yet, we were utilized by some of those in government. And usually, the stuff in government was... bizarre things. It was never normal type stuff. There's one case that we've really dug into, and that's the case of JC Brown. He claims that he came across a cave that went 11, 14 miles underground. And he came across what he called "the village." Eventually, he called "the village," which was these cut-out rooms. In these rooms, he found giant mummies. They were up to 12 feet tall.

We decided to take this case, see if we can find out first if it's real. You know, what's going on here. Digging into this, these giants, we went further, right, so, we also go and we identify the location where we can find them, the whole nine yards. But as far as the giants are concerned, these things are from an ancient civilization. These beings have been on Earth for a very long time.

When we looked at where they originally came from, it was a seeding on one side, like humans, for instance, and then... alien intervention, where they had genetically manipulated the species to be the way they are. And what happened with them was that there was a major cataclysm. This is probably around the time of the flood, so, they were still around. And a major cataclysm occurred. Especially up in the... Flooding up in the Pacific Northwest that wiped them out. And this cave system that these guys went to, these giants went to was them trying to escape. And get out of the way of this cataclysm. Now, you had humans who survived this cataclysm. Whenever the Earth would have a catastrophic episode, these genetic farmer races would take the civilizations they were experimenting on underground to protect their experiments.

VIVANCO: Then you've got petroglyphs up in the Lava Beds National Monument, Northern California. They're describing the cataclysm. They're describing something that happened with the Sun that destroyed a huge part of the Earth. And so, these giants were wiped out, in part, by that. And in part by Native Americans. They hunted them down. And they killed them.

And I don't know how intelligent the giants were, we don't get them as being extremely intelligent. We get Native Americans, Native Indians, this new version of humans as being extremely intelligent compared to them, and able to just eradicate them because these giants would end up eating them. They would capture them and eat them.

We looked at the reality of his find and then we also looked at what he was doing at the moment he claims that he found it. And those two things lined up. So, we're getting giant mummies. We're getting weaponry. We're getting strange symbols on copper plates. Everything that he claimed that he found, we saw in our remote viewing data.

The Copper Scrolls are 20,000 years old, they've been dated. And it took me 42 years just to decipher 15%, maybe less than that. And why are they hard to decipher? Because they are in a different language. They're in a vibrational language. You read it with a wet finger. And you're taught that chant, and you chant it over and over and over. You can tell... Almost like braille, when you go over it. You feel that slight tingle on your fingers. And you keep translating that, and a picture forms in your... It's not even in your mind, outside your mind.

So, when I ran my hands over, there's a probably 4,000-5,000 flips, I would call it. They're triangles, and they have different symbolism on it. So, you touch the symbolism, it brings you into a library. And the Copper Scrolls gives us instructions on technology, history, timelines, inverted timelines, different math to calculate those timelines.

They explain about different physics. About 140 different ways of doing math. The Copper Scrolls, we don't think they're from here. The Copper Scrolls have been mentioned through the Bible, through a lot of the ancient text. The Mormons have part of the Copper Scrolls, the Catholic faith has it, the government has some of it. And there's other organizations that have parts of it, and there's still some of the Copper Scrolls that's still buried, that we know where they are.

The Copper Scrolls gives us very specific instructions how to make a spiritual machine, so you can actually hear a spirit. And you can talk to a spirit, and the spirit will talk back. With nothing, just the human... People. No machinery, nothing else. No cell phones, no prayers, no dancing, no channeling. It's with community, that's what I'm doing here.

MAN: Some of our native indigenous civilizations that mysteriously disappeared, such as the Olmec, were actually extraterrestrial civilizations. So, over eons of time when in other star systems, they went through similar catastrophic cycles, these genetic farmer races had brought them as refugees to our planet and they would live on our planet for up to thousands of years while their system repaired. And then afterwards, they were removed and returned to their own star systems.

So, it turns out the Earth is cosmic refugee camp. So, the things that we see in the Bible are apparently metaphorical. They are actually real stories. They are real pieces of information. And this, I believe, includes the idea of Jesus arriving. So, the group that Jesus came to oppose actually hijacked his message, and as of 325 AD, created the New Testament, where they very selectively manicured Jesus' message to remove the teachings that they thought were anathema to their agenda.

So, apparently, Jesus spoke to one of the original apostles, apostle Peter, about reincarnation. This apostle then said that reincarnation was the great secret teaching of Jesus. By removing reincarnation from Christianity, the Roman elite were able to create an airtight Trinitarian doctrine, where the Trinity is God, the Father, God, the Son, and God, the Holy Spirit, and there's nothing else. The Holy Spirit becomes this sort of mystical thing that is not gendered feminine. You have the Father, which is masculine, the Son, which is masculine, and the Holy Spirit, which does not have a gender.

Therefore, the role of the feminine is removed from the Trinity. And this is an important point, the suppression of the feminine by the patriarchy to hold down the feminine aspect of human spirituality, and the feminine perspective that would include itself in governance, in law, in education, in all different aspects of society. One of the huge parts of awakening is really understanding feminine energy. And I think, really what's being rebalanced or coming to light for people, is the end of patriarchy.

And the understanding of things like sacred union. But when women are holding this historic resentment towards men, it's still not reaching a place that we need to reach with each other, to have unity consciousness, because it has nothing to do with men. It has nothing to do with women, it has to do with the programming. It has to do with something that's impacted both sexes.

If you think about it, men have gone off and gotten their limbs blown off in war. Women have been exiled, and there's been a lack of justice or lack of empowerment. So, this is how we heal our DNA. So, junk DNA is actually... scrambled fire codes that hold masculine and feminine energies in balance. That's how it upgrades and it connects to the Earth grids, too.

So, the rebalancing has to do with recognizing that the junk is actually a treasure. And if we could see this reality as a really unbelievable love story, the love story is that we're seeking truth, we're seeking the authentic, we're seeking the divine, and that's within ourselves, and we're divorcing the imposter. We're divorcing the system that has betrayed us. It's like a partner we would never want. Doesn't matter if it's masculine or feminine. It's not healthy, it's toxic, and it's cruel.

So, the rebalancing, I feel, has to do with... living this life like it's a true love story. But I think this is a huge deal for both men and women. Men are getting more in touch with their inner feminine. They're willing to maybe share emotion, be more vulnerable, and women are refusing to be victimized. And it's all rising to the surface, but it doesn't come down to the genders as much as it comes down to that individual's relationship with their own inner masculine and feminine.

And that's why it's not about a rebalancing because something that the men did wrong, it has to do with overthrowing a system of control that has impacted and infected everyone. I do believe that Jesus' teachings dealt a fatal blow to this so-called Illuminati agenda of the Roman empire at that time.

The Illuminati actually believe that being nice to people, forgiveness, compassion, that these are weaknesses and the tools of our enslavement. And they believe that by being free of those encumbrances, that they are superior to everyone else. So, part of their religion is that they will practice the extremes of both the positive and the negative path. Or what they call the Right-Hand Path and the Left-Hand Path. So, they will, for example, simultaneously create huge philanthropic endowments, where they give, in some cases, many, many millions, if not billions of dollars to humanitarian causes, while simultaneously performing the most heinous crimes imaginable against humanity.

I want to point out that what Jesus was teaching us about ascension has proven to be a far greater significance than is normally given credit for. Most Christians tend to distance themselves from the idea of the so-called Rapture. It is important to understand that the Book of Revelation was something that happened to John of Patmos as a visionary psychedelic-type dream experience. And, as is the nature of dreams, there is a great deal of metaphor and symbolism within the content.

So, for example, the frequent repetition of the number seven, such as seven lamp stands and so forth in the Book of Revelation, actually refers to the seven chakras of the human body. The seven energy centers that we have which correspond to the seven basic layers of the universe, the dimensions or densities. This is another thing that is described extensively in The Law of One. There are seven primary planes of existence that correspond with these seven different grades of evolution that intelligent life must go through, of which we currently are only at the third, which is the yellow center. So, you have red, orange, yellow. Or, first, second and third. Green, which is fourth density, light blue, which is fifth density, indigo, which is sixth density, violet, or seventh density, the Crown Chakra. And then, you go back to pure white light or intelligent infinity, the octave, which is the original identity of the creation that we all emanate from.

Now, where I feel that conventional Christianity has missed some very critical data, is when we look at the fact that the ascension that Jesus is describing in the New Testament is actually also predicted in almost every other global spiritual tradition preserved in history on Earth. This traces back of two of the most prominent historians of the 20th century, Giorgio de Santillana and Hertha von Dechend.

They wrote a book called Hamlet's Mill, which was their magnum opus, and in this book they tied together these legends from 35 different ancient civilizations on Earth, where they all had information regarding this 25,000-year cycle in the Earth. The 25,000-year cycle appears to end with a solar flash. A catastrophic event, which also represents a spiritual activation for those on Earth who are ready to appreciate its energetic benefits. So, within the secret programs, scientists have become aware of what they're calling a "galactic super-wave."

This wave is traveling through our galaxy, and has multiple layers. They describe it as being a giant dust-cloud, but with different energetic variables. What they had figured out is they had flown craft out to these locations, and when they did, the energy had a very strange effect on the consciousness of the inhabitants of those crafts.

People who were positive would bliss out, and people who had more of a negative vibe, would become more so. And they describe this as an in-time madness that is carried through this wave, that travels through each solar system. And when it does, the leading edge acts as, sort of, a Christ consciousness that forces people to judge themselves and to deal with their own karma and traumas, or experience in-time madness.

Dr. Paul LaViolette is the first person to have studied the existence of galactic super-waves. And basically, looking at evidence, that through different historical epochs, there have been these great concentrations of cosmic rays impacting the Earth. And Dr. LaViolette had an extraordinary theory for the existence of pulsars. He believed that these were artificially created by advanced extraterrestrial civilizations as warning beacons to newer civilizations such as ours, about the existence of these galactic super-waves.

And he basically looked at a number of pulsars pointing towards the Earth and the frequencies that they were transmitting at, and saying that this was evidence that these pulsars are transmitting a warning to the Earth to be ready for the next galactic super-wave, which if we're not ready, could actually wipe out our civilization.

Now, according to Corey Goode, as the galactic super-waves sweep into our solar system, they could trigger a solar flash event. That would be where the Sun's corona would be ejected in a massive super flare, and because the Earth is roughly 25,000 light years from the center of the galaxy, that's how long it would take for a galactic super-wave to travel from the center of the galaxy to us, at the moment.

Now, that 25,000-year cycle is not just some nebulous thing. It actually has a very tangible marker in this wobble in the Earth's axis that takes 25,000 years to complete. And this represents the time that is required for the stars in the night sky to drift through a complete cycle surrounding the Pole Star. This acts as a type of clock that tells us when the end of the cycle is going to occur. And these historians found that 35 different cultures around the world were tracking this procession. And they had information about this procession encoded into their religious myths.

And it does appear that some singular source worldwide programmed these mythologies and left this material for us to discover. This would appear to be the work of the benevolent positive extraterrestrials, which the people in the Secret Space Program call "the genetic farmer extraterrestrials." These beings knew that we were going to go through this ascension process. So, in addition to the Secret Space Program, a program was developed called "the Continuity of Species Program."

And that program was developed to basically scare all of the nations of the world to provide a certain amount of their GDP to these elite to create underground cities and bunkers, and colonies outside of our star system, in case our Sun were to micro or major nova. So, the elite powers in control of this planet are planning for Doomsday. It could mean a massive solar flare that gets emitted that society is not prepared for, or it could mean a public that starts waking up, that gets really, really mad.

So, these elite powers in control, to prepare for a variety of scenarios that could mean their downfall, they've been building a huge subterranean cavern system. Basically, Deep Underground Military Bases, DUMBs. They're kept very, very secret. These free energy sciences and technologies that we've been discussing are most likely kept within many of these deep underground military bases, among many other genetic and other experimentations that they wanted to do in secret.

Twenty years ago, I had a Soviet colonel who spoke to me about a deep underground base outside of Moscow, that he had been at and he had worked at. And he told me the structure. He said all the levels that were the military levels, the levels that were laboratory and scientists... And he told me that the final level, the most restricted level, was the level that had alien presence on it. Only generals and their aides were allowed on that level. And he said even they were not allowed to look directly at these creatures. And that was also the level where they did human experimentation.

He said there were bodies, human bodies in there. And he said it was the most extraordinary thing he'd ever seen in his life. Deep Underground Military Bases, a lot of that space is dedicated to continuity government, and so, the national government support these deep underground areas. These elite powers in control, they have access to information of all kinds and data that tells them about coming cataclysms, things that are impending at any moment. And so, they reserve these spaces for their purposes, and those national government leaders are thinking that they are going to get to use those spaces for whatever they need. They're in for a really rude awakening, when the time comes, because they are going to get kicked out.

NARRATOR: So, the elites are preparing using these underground bases, but it's interesting to note higher consciousness people are also preparing by exploring new community models.

SACHA STONE: My name is Sacha Stone, I am popularly known for having founded the New Earth Nation, which is a sovereign movement of conscious people, living men and women of the living soil, so to speak. The New Earth Project and the New Earth Blueprint, which is an ongoing evolutionary process, is emerging in direct proportion to the degree to which human beings are fed up and pissed off with the status quo.

So, as you can imagine, it's a revolution of political consequence, of social consequence, of civilizational consequence. It's underway, it's not possible to know yet, quite where the we land, but the point is, we are aggregating conscious, sovereign people around the world, in multiple parts of the world, who want to step outside of the fiction and begin to engage their noble expression as living men and women of the living soil.

There's no better way to put it than that, because that is foundationally what the New Earth Project is seeking to do, is to restore the organic and the living from the death cult, the blood economy, the fiction of what we've known for the last 8,000 years. What occurs is that each individual on this planet finds themselves more and more connected to every other human, and all of a sudden, we start approaching our problems from completely different angles and seeing solutions that were there all along.

We begin to... no longer have war and strife within our civilization. We begin to work together and solve all of the problems that have plagued us for so many thousands of years.

LEON ISAAC KENNEDY: "We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against spiritual strongholds, principalities, powers, ruling darkness in wicked places."

So, what does that mean? It means that there's a battle going on in the heavens, and in many instances, we, on this earthly realm, are proxies of that battle. So, therefore, spirits need a body. A good spirit, the Holy Spirit needs a body to work through. But these negative spirits, they need bodies to work through also. So, many times that thought that comes into your mind, that's not really your thought. And if you dwell on that thought, it's going to take you down a negative road. What did you mean by that? I mean that you were minding your own business, you were having a good afternoon, and then all of a sudden, this thought came in [SNAPS FINGERS] and then that thought triggered an emotion, and then that black dog, that cloud of depression came in and took over you the rest of the day. We're bombarded with negativity all day long. It's like a giant-spiritual-galactic chess match. When these hits come, you got to learn how to counter it. So, how do you learn that?

You learn that through the strategic art of prayer. You learn that through the strategic art of meditating, and having certain words that you'll say to combat that feeling, that emotion as soon as it comes upon you. That's part of becoming a master. You're going to master those thoughts. You're going to master those emotions. You're going to discipline yourself, your words and your actions.

WILCOCK: So, we are now in this war between good and evil that was predicted in the Bible. The negative agenda cannot survive as we go through this solar flash. They can only do their nefarious activities up until this event happens, at which time, everything changes. We have these angelic types of ETs and amoral types of ETs that are trying to assist us to ascend through the spiritual means.

But we also see a group of ETs that we call AI Prophets, and they worship some sort of artificial intelligence signal that, we don't know where it came from. We are told that most likely what happened is that somebody dabbled somewhere where they shouldn't and created some sort of rip between realities. And in the reality where this AI signal came from, there was a mass consciousness that was an electromagnetic life form, and that electromagnetic life form bled into our reality, and because it's an electromagnetic life form, it is able to control and manipulate technology at will. They take those technologies and turn them on the biological species that created them.

There are two major paths in the ascension process. One of them is an organic, spiritual evolution, and the other one is a technological evolution. The easiest way to relate the technological evolution would be the trend of transhumanism that has developed on our planet as we have developed our technology. So, in star system after star system, we have... systems that are infested with artificial intelligence, signals and actual technology taken over by this AI.

What I've been told is that when we have this next micronova event, that the electromagnetic pulse that emanates is expected to destroy this entire AI signal and infrastructure that is in our solar system, thus, freeing us from any type of influence from this AI. I was also told that at the end of every age, there is also a great revealing or apocalypse that occurs, that reveals all of the secrets that have been hidden from humanity and is a part of the disclosure in the ascension process.

This so-called apocalypse... is actually not gloom and doom. It's a rebirth. It's a rebooting. It's the beginning of a brand-new age, a brand new dispensation. And after it occurs, truly, there will be more peace on Earth. Truly, there will be more goodwill toward man and to one another. Truly, there will be a whole new beginning. Actually, it's something to look forward to.

WILCOCK: Christianity, in the Bible, at least, doesn't predict a solar flash per se. But let's remember that the four main books of the Bible that contain the direct words of Jesus are Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John. All four of these core Gospels have direct ascension prophecies encoded into them. This appears with Jesus actually saying, "As it was in the days of Sodom and Gomorrah, so shall it be in the day of the son of man."

What does that mean? Sodom and Gomorrah ended with fire and brimstone raining from the heavens, right? So, the end of the son of man features fire and brimstone raining from the heavens again. That is the solar flash. That's the debris that comes out of the sun. Jesus also says, "As it was in the days of Noah, so shall it be in the days of the son of man."

Well, the time of Noah ended with a large flood. So, Jesus appears to be talking about a global, catastrophic pole shift event. that creates a global flood. In the Book of John, Jesus says, "The fields are white and ready to harvest." So, these fields appear to be metaphors of ascension process.

The real key to Jesus' metaphors of ascension appear in the Book of Matthew, and it appears the most in the parable of the wheat and the tares. Now, the word "tares" refers to weeds. One of Jesus' strange, encrypted analogies of ascension is where he describes how the Earth is like a field of wheat that has been planted. But the adversary is allowed to sow seeds of weeds in the garden or tares. Now, this is an analogy where Jesus says that the wheat and the weeds are allowed to grow together until the time of the harvest. At which time, the weeds will be plucked from the wheat one by one, gathered into bundles, and burned in His barn.

This is a symbol of the solar flash. The teachings of Christianity, and the other 34 ancient spiritual traditions all say the same thing. They all say that when the solar flash happens, if you are on the positive side, you are not affected by it, except in a positive way. Jesus designed his incarnation to show us what we will go through. This is why Jesus says, "As I do these things, so shall ye do them, and greater things for I go on to my father." That's John 14:12.

So, I want to point out that once we look at the records from these other cultures, the prophecies of ascension that Jesus gives us are remarkably consistent. Jesus does not talk about the solar flash per se, but he does say, "Two shall be walking in the field, and then there shall be one."

If we look at the Zoroastrian tradition, coming out of Iran or Persia, they talk about frashokereti. They say that molten metal will come out of the mountains and down into the lowlands.

With the Hindu scriptures, they report a very similar phenomenon, except they call it the Samvartaka Fire or Samvarta Fire at the end of the age, which they say comes directly out of the Sun. They also call it the Yuga Fire. They also talk about the fact that it causes rainbow colors in the sky. And we find out that that's because it creates a massive global aurora borealis.

Isn't it interesting that the same prophecies that Jesus was giving us appear in the Quran, which is the Islamic Bible, quite extensively? They appear in the Old Testament, they appear in Native American spiritual traditions, in Celtic traditions, Druidic traditions.

Everyone got this.

GOODE: The expanding electromagnetic field coming from the Sun is going to interact with the consciousness of humanity. What occurs is an ascension event. No matter what your belief system is, you don't need any new religions. All you have to do is apply yourself and become the best of what your religion entails.

WILCOCK: The idea being, though, that at the end of the cycle, we have the opportunity to escape reincarnation. We don't have to keep coming back as a third-density human being. We can come back at the next level.

So, people often ask me, "What's going to happen to the people who are not going to ascend?" And there's a lot of them. Most of them, apparently, will be transported to another third-dimensional planet. It's actually done with these massive extraterrestrial mother ships.

GOODE: What I was shown was, that other ET civilizations in our local stellar neighborhood who they refer to as our cosmic cousins, descended on the planet. And it looked like stars falling from the sky, there were so many craft coming. And they came to render aid to all of humanity after the fall of the technological civilization.

What I'm told by these beings is that we will get the experience that we need, the experience that will expand our consciousness and help us evolve in the most beneficial way. If we want to avoid a major cataclysm, what we can do is start to develop our consciousness now. We can put more and more work into expanding our consciousness and becoming more connected with the people around us. And if we do so, the interaction between our consciousness and the Sun may give us a gentler experience.

ALLISON KO: My name is Allison Ko, I'm a hypnotherapist outside of Portland, Oregon. There are some really interesting trends that move them their way through these sessions that I have. And I've been doing this for years. And at first, I thought these trends were just supposed to be looked at individually. And then I decided to look at them as being stacked on top of each other to prepare us, to get us a higher perspective on what's going on. So, let's look at those trends really quick:

Trend one, there is an event or solar flash that will happen to this Earth to raise the frequency in vibration of the planet and all beings on it. How are we being prepared for it?

Trend two. Smaller waves of energy are coming to the Earth to slowly raise us up. And as they do so, more and more people are awakening. Their belief systems are shattering. Anything that's holding them back is kind of crumbling. Their relationships are changing. They're raising their frequency in vibration to match this event that will happen.

Trend three. There are new Earth or Earth-like planets, higher density planets that are being prepared for humans to go, and eventually, move to. And people are seeing these planets in their dreams, or in their meditations, or in their hypnosis sessions.

Trend four. There are ships gathering all around the Earth from all over the galaxy, or universe, or multiverse. There are ships here. People are seeing them. People are connecting to them.

Trend five. There are higher aspects of you that are connecting to you. There are ETs and higher density versions of you that are trying to give you information and speak with you, and connect with you to help raise the frequency in vibration of you and the Earth.

We might then ask, why are all these sessions happening? Why are all these people all over the world who are disconnected, who aren't connected in any way, shape or form... why are they getting all of these messages that have this similar trend to them?

Is it some sort of indication that there is this craziness moving through the world? Are they all warped in some way? Or are we all being prepared for something big that's going to happen to this Earth?

WILCOCK: When we combine all of this information together, what we see is that the extraterrestrial humans who are here now are predominantly benevolent. They would be angelic, as we think of them. They are keenly interested in human spiritual evolution.

We have a much smaller number of extraterrestrials who are evil or negative. They would correspond with the demons that we see in many different spiritual traditions, and their agenda is to dominate, control and destroy the planet. It does not appear that we are on a negative timeline.

It does appear that we are on an ascension timeline. And what we need to understand is that by simply following the basic principles of service to others, being more loving, being more forgiving, taking time to be patient and learning to love yourself as well as being loving to others, that is also a very important point. Self-forgiveness, self-acceptance.

"In forgiveness lies the stoppage of the wheel of karma."

This is one of my favorite Law of One quotes. By being forgiving, and practicing forgiveness, you discharge the karma that would keep you reincarnating.

LAURA EISENHOWER: There's something in your body, in your mind, in your spirit, because they all work together, that wants you to heal and be a whole person again. And I believe that it will set up the circumstances and the synchronicities in your life to guide you to exactly what you want... or exactly what you need to look at to heal. Your body wants to be whole. It wants the whole energy field and energy flow through the aura in the human body to be smooth and flowing.

It doesn't want to be slammin' up against these blocks in your body or in your consciousness.

And it'll keep working away at those blocks one way or another, until you can find a way to heal, so that energy can flow smooth again. And then, you can be more seamlessly connected to the whole of the universe. If you really want to heal, and you're willing to go wherever you need to go to heal, the universe will set up the synchronicities that will guide you to what you need to find out about yourself, so that you can heal.

BEN CHASTEEN: It's not about what happens. It's about how we handle it and how we help those around us. And if you're watching this right now, you actually have the power to do that. And I think that's what people don't really understand, is that all of us collectively have the power to help one another, no matter what's going on. Also, on top of that.

ROB CONTE: I think that when all of these things do get exposed, there's so many people in the mainstream society that are just going to be like, "What is going on?", you know. And they're going to look to... not just us, I mean... -the collective us. -the collective... Yeah. Everybody who's focusing on this for answers. But I think there's a divine aspect to this, where we don't even know our own potential as human beings.

KENNEDY: My dear ones... this is not gloom and doom. This is not the end of the world. Ascension is the start of a new age.

SASHA STONE: You are a son or a daughter of God most high. It's who you are. It's what you are. The great Spirit. The great source. The alpha and the omega. You are the son and the daughter of the alpha-omega.

MAN: If we were to unify, if we were to get over the fear and start living with hope and living with positivity... they wouldn't be able to feed off our negative energy anymore.

KENNEDY: Thus, I feel the question one should ask would be... "How can I individually be prepared?"

ALLISON KO: What you have to do is believe in yourself, in your healing, in your light, in your vibrations. That's all the preparation you need at this point. You have to start being whole.

SALLA: Our bodies are made up of these trillions of atoms that are quantumly entangled not only to one another, but to everyone else.

EISENHOWER: So, in this ascension window, we're actually lifting the veil between life and death because we've gone through enough of these cycles that the polarity or the duality between life and death is beginning to thin.

KENNEDY: Numerous religions and a variety of cultures have prophesied that this event is coming. It's not a matter of "if," but "when."

SLATTERY: Contact is happening now. And we have to get ready for the mass event that's coming, still, which is happening soon.

GOODE: The main message from these ETs are for us to become more spiritual and to prepare ourselves for this coming event.

SLATTERY: So, this big change is coming, but everyone's got a place in this, and no one's more important than anyone else. We're all in the same wavelength here at the most important time in the universe right now.

GILLILAND: I don't care what religion you are, what color you are, what culture... It doesn't matter. That zero point that we want to get to is right here. And when you connect with this, everything's connected.

MAHOOTY: We need to reconnect with what's ethical. How do we live as a civilization ethically and morally with all the new technology that we have, that we're developing, and that we will develop in the future?

MAN: And that's what we all have to do in order to... be happy, be joyful, to be in the moment.

KENNEDY: You see, prayer can change some things. But some prophecies cannot be changed.

MAHOOTY: The information that we have been holding back, or at least, survived throughout the ages, now has to be put out there.

SANIPASS: I'm offering teachings that's 20,000 years old. And all I need... I don't need money. Just people to listen.

KENNEDY: Can we retrain ourselves, and even teach the next generation the value of being of service to others? To honor Mother Earth, to honor our animals, to honor one another? To respect the sovereign dignity of each individual?

WILCOCK: The best thing that you can do if you find yourself in this Illuminati in any way... The best thing you can do to absolve yourself of any karmic debt is to come forward as an insider, as a whistleblower. If you dedicate your life in service and you're willing to speak out and act on behalf of the greater good for humanity, you better believe that you can get your ticket to the ascension. You can make a difference by becoming a hero. If you become a hero, if you do the right thing, you do not have to be condemned, you do not have to miss out on this ascension process. So, I believe we must remember that the spiritual forces that exist on Earth are real, that the different teachers from different religious backgrounds did come in with a message. There is a consistency to that message. This is the angelic positive agenda. It is to teach us the importance of love, positivity, compassion, long-suffering, patience, forgiveness, and understanding. And once we embrace and live by these principles, we are bringing ourselves into vibrational accordance with this higher truth. It is a very exciting future, and it is a future that I am willing to fight for, and that I spend every day of my life to prepare us for. That is the mission, that is the objective, that is the ascension, and that is the Cosmic Secret.

NARRATOR: You are the conduit between the spiritual realms and the physical realms. You are the convergence of science and spirituality. The choice is up to each of us, but the answer is yours, and yours alone. Will you choose fear, or will you choose love? That is the only question.
